Soul is a new CBD brand that has taken the industry by storm. Soul was born out of two siblings' passion for the benefits of CBD. Co-founders Angie Lee, serial entrepreneur, and Mike Lee, current undefeated Light Heavyweight Champion boxer, have each experienced the healing power of CBD in combating their own anxiety, pain, inflammation, and sleep struggles. They are a powerhouse duo who have had to (literally) fight their way to the top of their respective industries. Doing this did not come without a cost for either sibling. Both Angie and Mike have unique, powerful stories about their climb to the top, the struggles they have faced along the way, and how they have used CBD to help them stay on top of the game.

Angie Lee is a health coach turned business coach, biohacking/wellness expert, speaker, and author. Over the past decade, Angie has ridden the emotional waves of entrepreneurship: going from being 100k in debt to making 100k a month. Angie is no stranger to anxiety. She once had a panic attack that lasted two weeks. Since then, Angie has been on a mission to find relief holistically. As a wellness expert, Angie knew that pharmaceuticals were not an option for her. Her search for holistic relief led her to CBD.

Mike Lee is a professional boxer, currently ranked third in the world in his division. He has accomplished this achievement while having to overcome even more hurdles than the average boxing aches and pains. Three years ago, Mike was diagnosed with an autoimmune disease called ankylosing spondylitis. At times, this leaves him inflamed and in significant pain. His diagnosis came after years of being in pain, being in and out of hospitals, and being misdiagnosed. Mike took medications and treatment but was looking to further supplement for relief, which led him to CBD.

Angie and Mike both experienced the power of CBD, but they were less-than thrilled about the quality and purity of products in the market. So they came together to create a company that offers a line of CBD products that are unparalleled in purity and quality. The product is sourced from an organic US farm run by experienced farmers who monitor the entire life of the plant, and it is produced in food-grade conditions at GMP compliant facilities. Finally, every product comes with third party lab tests that verify its quality and purity.
