SarniaLiving.com has announced the recent publication of several online articles. The posts serve as a guide to the best local dining places in Sarnia, Ontario. Sarnia Living is a digital media and web development company that connects residents of Sarnia to local businesses and events in the area. One of the main goals of the lifestyle company is to promote the local culture of Sarnia and take an active role in showcasing the great city.

The company's post on local restaurant options provides an extensive guide on affordable and interesting dining choices. The company came up with a list of local restaurants based on different qualities. Foremost on the menu would be the quality of food, then the level of customer service provided, and the ambiance radiated by the place. ?We also looked at the wine list, the excellence of cocktails on the menu, and the quality of beers on offer. Other less easily quantifiable qualities were also factored in, such as consistency, imagination, and personality. Things like do they incorporate casual or fine dining, or do they offer a lunch menu. Outdoor seating or a sushi bar. Amenities are not only what we expect as restaurant guests. Our wallet and mouth also helped in grading our experience,? said Ryan Powell, the Editor in Chief of SarniaLiving.com. ?Bottom line, the question would really be, is it a place we would recommend to a friend or we would not mind dining if we had just one night in Sarnia,? Powell added.

Sarnia Living's post also went on to advise local restaurants on the qualities and characteristics of a good dining spot, such as the value of standing out and providing excellent customer service. The company also listed the new food trends Sarnia entrepreneurs can try, like the increasing use of technology such as phone apps and augmented reality and social media, with Instagram in particular.

The company also published a guide for local breakfast options to try in the city. The Sarnia Living Breakfast guide offers a variety of options for early food lovers. From buffet and banquet options large enough to accommodate large families, to a family run breakfast and coffee joint that opens their doors as early as half past five in the morning. The post also lists some vegetarian breakfast options for a healthy start of the day, as well as high protein, diabetic friendly, and gluten-free or low carbohydrate breakfast choices to accommodate the most discerning of morning appetites. ?No matter which breakfast joint you prefer, we are certain it will quickly become a crowd favourite. As a place to meet after church or to simply cure a hangover on Sunday morning, Sarnia?s breakfast options are sure to hit the spot. Many of these restaurants are home to very loyal customers, where the staff begins to feel like family and Sunday brunch is something everyone looks forward to. So stick to your favourite, or you can try them all,? said Powell.
