December 20, 2018 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Temporary Warehouse in Houston, Texas, has been named the number one vendor of temporary structures in the country. Temporary Warehouse structures range from tents, portable distribution and manufacturing centers and temporary warehouses. The company states that all of their tents and warehouses are manufactured from anodized aluminum and rust-free galvanized steel that is engineered in Germany. The company states that their structures can withstand hurricane strength winds.

Jack Lytle, a representative for the company says, "We are the first in the country to offer industrial strength tent structures exclusively. Clients use our structures for long and short term solutions and we can provide them to our customers through purchase or lease. We are proud to have been named the company to call when clients need temporary structures."

Temporary Warehouse was founded in 1998. The two founders saw a desperate need for temporary structures for onsite jobs in the nation. With their combined 36 years of experience, the founders developed structures that solved the needs of their clients and continue to do so with quality structures that are built to last. Lytle states that a number of businesses now call on the company for their temporary warehouse needs.

?Not only do we provide quality structures,? says Lytle, ?We also aim to increase knowledge and understanding of these portable structures. We release new blog posts regularly that give more information on our temporary warehouse structures, such as what they are used for and how they can benefit a business.?

Lytle states that one of the most recent blog posts by the company reveals reasons why temporary structures benefit businesses, including the fact that they provide a flexible investment that gives businesses a good ROI. He states that businesses that may be interested in industrial tents for rent can contact the company directly to learn more or browse their website, which offers insights into the structures that they provide as well as a list of the benefits of owning or leasing them.

One of the reasons that Temporary Warehouse was named the best in the United States for temporary structures is due to the satisfaction of their customers. Customers have expressed that they are more than satisfied with the products and services that the company has provided to them. One company, Siemens Energy and Automation, expressed that they were very impressed with the overall quality of the structure as well as the workmanship of the company. A representative for Siemens Energy and Automation says that the company finished the structure a full three days ahead of time and states that they will consider Temporary Warehouse to be their go-to for similar structures in the future.

Lytle says that this is just one of the many customers that have contacted them to praise them for a job well done. He states that there are a number of customer reviews that can be read on the company?s website and states that those who are looking for more information on their portable structures can contact them directly or browse their website to learn more about what they do, their company history and other information.

Lytle states that the company is pleased to have received such an honor and states that their dedication to customer satisfaction is not going to waver now. He says that they will continue to provide the same high quality structures that their founders have been providing since day one and urges those in need of a temporary structure to contact them directly to discuss those needs. The clear span tent manufacturers state that their winning customer service and quality products are what have made them the number one choice for businesses in need of temporary structures in the past and that they will continue to do everything in their power to satisfy all of their customer needs going into the future. Those interested in learning more can call the company directly or visit them online.
