December 26, 2018 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Commercial space and office cleaning experts Active Office Cleaning has announced that their services are now available in Sydney and surrounding areas. The company has well trained professional cleaners and staff that can provide consistently high-quality services needed by businesses and institutions. With over 20 years experience in handling commercial accounts, Active Office Cleaning is ready to partner with more corporate clients in and around the city of Sydney.

According to Geoffrey Tooney, the owner of Active Office Cleaning, "Our goal is to transform our customers' offices into a clean, welcoming, and safe work space every time we visit. We are fully aware of the importance of everyday business routine, that's why we work around our client's schedule to set up a time that suits their specific needs. With available options for both weekday and weekend visits, it's our goal to serve at the most convenient time and without our clients having to deal with any interruptions from us." Having a reliable schedule of services, without any missed appointments is vital in dealing with businesses and institutions. Any interruptions in services or delay in the delivery could affect the businesses of clients in many ways.

Active Office Cleaning has over a hundred active professional cleaners in the company at any given time. This number ensures that all the needs of the clients are met without interruption. The cleaning company offers both regular daytime services and quick office cleaning solutions meant to improve clients' professional atmosphere. "We believe that providing a clean office environment is the main element of having a modern, effective organization in a company. Cleanliness is of utmost importance to a brand's persona and clients' impression, and we want to be part of every business' success by giving them well-polished commercial facilities. Furthermore, cleanliness plays a big role for employee's health and well-being and can directly affect productivity and efficiency through the prevention of absences from their work," said Tooney.

By focusing on commercial and corporate clients, the cleaning company are able to provide only the best customized solutions targeted to those clientele. Active Office Cleaning offer quality solutions from industry grade to retail cleaning. Some of their specialties include carpet steam cleaning, window cleaning, and floor polishing. They also specialize in handling office and workplace cleaning, gym cleaning, strata cleaning, and school and childcare cleaning. The company has likewise experienced cleaning warehouses, retail outlets, car dealerships, and a lot more. With extensive experience working in different office types and locations the Sydney-based company has been a trusted name among businesses and institutions in need of cleaning services. "With more than 20 years of experience in the business, a lot of local businesses and facilities trust us to provide them with top quality cleaning solution throughout our skilled, insured, and trustworthy staff. We service the whole Sydney area with quality commercial facilities at very competitive prices. We're a leader when it comes to outsourced facilities services with an established reputation as a trustworthy cleaning service in Australia," Tooney added.

One satisfied client is Robert Pilna, who has this to say about the company, "Active provide amazing service. They are responsive and resolve all issues quickly and efficiently before they become a problem. I recommend them fully and they are the most reliable cleaning company by far." This is in line with Active Office Cleaning's mission to provide dependable cleaning services with the best customer service available. They also offer their services at a very reasonable cost. Usually, industry standards dictate that cheap cleaning companies lack the necessary experience due to a high level of staff turnover. While experienced cleaning companies, although of high-quality, also come at a very high price point. Active Office Cleaning strives to deliver both exceptional value and excellent service.

Active Office Cleaning provides free on-site evaluation and quotation for potential corporate clients. They work together with the clients to come up with a cleaning program that provides both quality and value, and a win-win solution for everyone.
