

Positive Singles Dating Website Provides People With STDs A Dating Platform

December 28, 2018

Chicago, Illinois - December 28, 2018 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

MeetPositives.com is pleased to announce that they are relaunching their website, which provides STD positive singles a platform through which they can meet other people who are also living with a sexually transmitted disease. The website is designed with the intent to provide STD positive singles an alternative to normal dating, without the fear of having the dreaded "talk".

When contacted about the unique idea behind the website, Jack Lombardi, a representative for the company said, "Everyone deserves love. As people, we have an innate need for intimacy and for the company of other people, but when you are living with a sexually transmitted disease, it is not easy. Every potential date, every potential relationship, can end in disaster because you simply can't lie about having a condition. You didn't ask to be infected with an STD, but you were and now you have to live with it. You need to have the "talk", and you don't know how they'll take it. There is a good chance for rejection. Meet Positives helps positive singles avoid the embarrassment and possible rejection, by telling a potential mate about their condition. It gives them a place to find people who are living with a similar condition, it provides an alternative tool to find love."

On the services the website provides and how it works, Jack Lombardi says, "We provide one main service. Our website is a dating platform geared to serve people with STDs. Our members join because they want to find and date others who have experienced the same struggles, who are living with the same or similar conditions. In addition to providing a dating platform, we also have a community forum and other ways to communicate with similar people, share your stories and advice. It takes a load off their minds to know that they don't have to disclose their condition to someone who is not STD positive. As to how we work, when a new member signs up, they input all their details. Our algorithm combs through our database and finds people who are living with similar conditions, sorted by distance and by other criteria, like gender and age. Registered members enjoy searching profiles of positive singles who also want to date, share their stories, and learn more about their conditions on discussion forums."

Dating with HSV or other similar conditions is not easy. The two main choices for people who are STD positive, and looking for love or companionship currently are: doing traditional dating and then later having the talk, or by telling the person upon meeting them for the first time, both of which are imperfect options. Meet Positives is the solution; a more refined option for STD positive singles to find love. Unlike the methods used by conventional dating sites, Meet Positives uses a different approach to match people. The algorithm they use to find matches is not just intended to match people with the same interests and conditions, but also has the aim of ensuring that the users generate long-lasting relationships.

A member of the Meet Positives website who wished to remain anonymous said, "Before I found the site, I had been on several dates, but nothing ever went beyond the second date. I didn't ask for this (the STD), it was passed on to me by someone who lied to me about their situation. I don't want to do the same, so I try to be an honest and open person and tell my dates the truth. I can't blame them, but they weren't exactly interested in having a relationship with someone who was HIV positive. Since I found MeetPositives.com, I've not had to worry about anything. Now, I can find people who can look past my condition, because they're living with one too. We can look at each other for who we are beyond our STD. It's a great website providing a much needed service."

Anyone who wishes to sign up to the Meet Positives website can do so now at www.meetpositives.com. Registering for an account is very easy and the website allows anyone to get a start on finding love from the get go, without any of the many hassles of traditional dating as a STD positive single.
