

Roofing Team Pros Announces Emergency Roof Repair Services

December 27, 2018

December 27, 2018 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Roofing Team Pros in Wilmington, North Carolina has announced that they are now providing emergency roofing repairs throughout New Hanover County in North Carolina. The company states that homeowners who have experienced roofing damage due to heavy snow or other storms can contact them and they will dispatch assistance around the clock.

Mary Allison, a representative for the company says, "Winter in North Carolina has shown us that this area can be unpredictable. Anyone who has experienced roof damage due to storms or other issues can reach out to us and we will instantly send someone over to assess the damage and to offer an estimate of the repairs that are needed." Allison says that those interested can get a full list of the company's services by visiting them online at <https://roofingteampros.business.site>.

December, 2018 dumped several feet of snow on many areas of North Carolina. Allison says that a number of homeowners noticed damage on their roofs after that heavy snow. She says that if repairs are not done properly the first time, homeowners could spend thousands having additional damage repaired. Roof damage can ultimately lead to indoor damage to ceilings and even floors if water and other debris makes their way indoors. The company states that homeowners should be on guard at any point during heavy storms and contact the roofing contractor immediately if they notice damage.

"Leaving a roof issue for later could be very costly," says Allison. "Our team is ready to dispatch for any emergency situation and can have that roof properly repaired and sturdily doing its job again in no time."

Allison states that even if the homeowner does not believe that there is heavy damage, a roof evaluation should be done. She says that roofs that have incurred damage may not always show that damage to the untrained eye. Only a roofing professional can spot small issues that could potentially turn into larger issues if they are left unchecked. The company says that this is particularly important for homes that have older roofs, as a roof has a life expectancy of only about 20 years or so. Roofs that have been installed longer than that should be evaluated every year to check for potential signs of damage or issues that may need to be repaired before they become a problem.

The company has a video that can be seen at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=1EXnanFoqyl&t=6s> that further explains how a roof can be damaged and what that damage can mean to the interior of the home if it is not repaired quickly. Allison says that whether homeowners need roofing repairs or just want their roofs to be evaluated, the time to do so is now, before any additional snowfall could cause potential issues.

The company states that they have emergency services that are available for every home or business in the area. Those who notice damage, even on weekends, holidays or in the middle of the night, can contact the roofing contracting company to have a technician sent out who will evaluate the damage and offer an estimate for repairing the damage. The company states that they do not charge for estimates or quotes and that they work quickly to ensure that the home or business does not incur any additional damage due to the roof issue.

The company states that they can repair or replace roofs made from a number of materials including steel, slate, rubber slate, concrete tiles and traditional shingles. They work with most insurance companies and can help the homeowner to better determine what their insurance company will and will not cover with regards to roofing replacements or repairs. Those who are interested can learn more about the repair and emergency services offered by Roofing Team Pros by visiting them on their official website. Homeowners who need to contact the company to schedule an emergency or routine inspection or repair job can do so on the website or by calling them directly.
