Tree Service In San Mateo Warns: Poorly Trimmed Trees Can Cause Serious Problems

January 02, 2019

January 02, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

San Mateo Tree Leaders, a tree service company in San Mateo, CA, wants to warn homeowners and other property owners that poorly trimmed or pruned trees can cause serious problems. They would like to point out that tree trimming that is done regularly would be the best thing to do to ensure that trees remain healthy and looking good.

Angela Wallace, spokesperson for San Mateo Tree Leaders, says, "Tree trimming or pruning should be left to the professionals. If not done properly, it could result in stunted or uneven growth. Also, if mature trees are subjected to over pruning, this can lead to overgrowth on branches that could cause those branches to break, which is dangerous as this could injure people or damage property. Furthermore, improper branch cuts can harm the tree and make it vulnerable to pests and microbes."

Angela Wallace points out that trees are vital for a home or property as they can make the property stand out because they provide oxygen to the air and shade especially during the hot months. Trees can make homes and buildings more attractive. However, they need to be properly taken care of and if certain trees are dead or dying, they need to be removed, not just to remove the eye sore but also to ensure that other trees are not affected and to ensure that the dead and dying trees do not pose a danger to people and property. To serve the needs of people in San Mateo and surrounding areas, San Mateo Tree Leaders has previously issued a press release announcing their services at <https://www.pressadvantage.com/organization/san-mateo-tree-leaders>.

Sometimes, there could also be a problem due to overgrown trees. Their roots could have found their way in the foundation of the home or building or they have caused cracks to floors and walls. Such roots need to be removed before the damage could grow worse. Trees also need to be inspected by professionals regularly to make sure that there are no problems like those roots and that there are no diseases that could infect more trees. Furthermore, there should be no branches that can reach a part of the house, building or electric lines. Such branches, when blown by the wind, could hit the house or electric lines, causing damage and danger.

Angela Wallace urges homeowners and property owners who have dead and dying trees in their yard not to wait any longer. This is because one cannot predict when a dead branch may break off and fall down on an unsuspecting person below or cause damage to a part of the property. It is also not advisable for amateurs to do the tree removal or tree trimming. This is a dangerous undertaking that must be left to the professionals.

One of the most important services they provide is tree removal, especially after a storm when strong winds would cause trees to fall and branches to break. Broken branches and fallen trees need to be removed because they are not just an eye sore but dead tree trunks and branches can be used by rats and mice as nests and these trees may also harbor disease that could be transferred to the healthy trees. Dead and dying trees are also weak and may fall any time, and this could injure someone or wreck a part of the house or property.

The company has experienced and professional arborists who know the best thing to do for any situation. Thus, even homeowners or property owners who are still planning to plant trees in their yard can get advice from these arborists on the best kinds of trees to have in their yard. Arborists can also offer advice on the proper way to take care of the trees.
