Vancouver Plumbing Services is pleased to announce that they have recently partnered with Henco Plumbing Services to expand their plumbing services to Clark and Cowlitz Counties.

"In partnership with Henco Plumbing Services, we are now expanding our coverage from small residential properties to big business establishments as well. All of our plumbers are insured and certified to deliver safe, quality assured, and efficient plumbing solutions in all of Vancouver. Furthermore, we are able to perform all types of repairs, from simple problems such as as fixing leaking faucets and unclogging drains, to addressing bigger issues such as repiping of sewer lines and reinstallation of home water lines," says Bill Brown from Vancouver Plumbing Services.

According to Brown, they specialize in providing professional plumber services, including fixture repairs and replacements, sewer line scooping, hydro jetting, pipe unclogging, water line and sewer line repair and re-piping, water heater repair and installation, trenchless piping, and overall remodeling of kitchen and toilet plumbing systems.

He also highlights the importance of proper examination and maintenance of pipelines and sewer lines, especially for business establishments and older estates.

Regular plumbing maintenance is very important to ensure safety and cost efficiency. A broken or leaking pipe can cause health hazards due to accumulated molds and mildew that affect the overall quality of air indoors. Seeking professional help right away is very important to prevent further problems caused by fungi infestation. In addition to this, regular maintenance prolongs the lifespan of the whole plumbing system. Aside from limiting the availability of water and decreasing its pressure, pipe clogs also strain joints and valves due to inconsistent water pressure fluctuations. Plumbing problems also account for some of the most expensive repairs in a home or business establishment. Preventative measures are proven to be beneficial, especially to business owners who want to ensure that their plumbing system will not cause any disruption to their day-to-day operations. Ultimately, regular plumbing maintenance improves overall hygiene, and promotes a cleaner living and working environment. It also has the potential to save tens of thousands of gallons of water and alert home and business owners of the issues that might cause them more serious plumbing problems in the future.

“Our team of experts has extensive knowledge of plumbing systems, and is able to diagnose potential problems immediately. They also have the appropriate skills to address issues on residential and commercial plumbing systems alike. Additionally, we acquired the proper license and insurance to ensure our client’s peace of mind. Furthermore, we have developed our own set of quality standards to make safety a priority while delivering excellent services to our customers,” Brown added.

Those who are looking for a professional plumber in Vancouver WA may consider Vancouver Plumbing Services. They are considered one of the top plumbing service providers in the area, based on positive reviews and recommendations that they receive online. “We bought an older home that was in need of new plumbing in the laundry room,” says Adam Krout in a Google review. “Water lines were leaking and the whole system had to be redone. The team from Vancouver Plumbing Services did an awesome job and resolved the issue in no time. Thanks for the affordable and amazing service.”

Ray Williams, another satisfied client said, “A friend of mine recommended Vancouver Plumbing Services when the sewer line of my house broke out in the middle of my yard. One of the trees fell in and completely destroyed the pipes. After a thorough inspection, one of their plumbers discussed the work that needed to be done with me. They came back the next day, took out the old pipe and did a complete re-piping service. They worked fast, and the new plumbing seems to help with the water flow from our toilets and sinks. They did a great job for a reasonable price.”
