Allen Farrar of Perfect Hair Focus is happy to announce that they are launching new hair building fibers to hide thinning hair. Perfect Hair Focus has been offering hair products to consumers for over 20 years and is creating an industry standard with their hair building fiber product. Customers will be able to use this product in order to reduce the look of thinning and promote fullness in the hair.

When approached about this announcement, Allen Farrar shared this comment, "We understand that our customers are self-conscious about the the fullness and volume of their hair. It is especially concerning when the hair is thinner in some places, sometimes giving the appearance of baldness. We wanted to offer a product that is easy to use and affordable. This texturizing powder was the answer to that."

This product is designed to be long-lasting and applied in as little as 30-seconds. It comes in several colors in order to match almost any natural hair color and texturizes automatically. Users simply shake on the root touch up powder onto their scalp and the product adheres to the user's hair. It covers the look of balding or gaps in order to promote the look of fullness.

Taper, an Amazon buyer, shared this review, "This has been such a great help. Lately I have noticed my normally thick hair is showing gaping spots The hair doesn't seem to be falling out, just splitting and showing scalp. I see it in women often, especially older women, but I don't want to see it in my mirror. So I use this product and feel comfortable anywhere."

Other conditions that this product helps with includes signs of alopecia, scalp show-through, and general thinning. The hair building fibers attach to the hair at the scalp and remain in place all day, even if the user styles their hair after applying the powder. It also thickens the hair to provide volume and texture, making it easier to find an enjoyable style.

Kelly shared this glowing review on Amazon, "This is great stuff! I have salt and pepper hair and my husband has white hair and the "Grey" works for both of us. It is easy to use and looks completely natural. I have purchased 2 so far and will continue to do so. It will really surprise you how well it works. It did us.?

Dr. Axe has a blog for effective hair loss products along with tips for hair regrowth. In the blog, he explains how common it is for hair loss to occur and suggests natural remedies for promoting hair growth. He additionally recommends foods and ingredients in foods to avoid in order to minimize hair loss while also featuring what vitamins and minerals will help thicken hair. While these solutions are great in the long term, a root touch-up powder is recommended in the interim.

Julie was happy to share this 5-star review, ?I am not sure what is going on with all these crazy hormone changes. Ever since I hit premenopause, I have noticed a thinning of my hair. So I ordered this product and now I need to order about 10 more. It is super easy to use and blends in with my natural color. You just follow the super easy instructions. No mess and no crazy smell. Thanks for an awesome product.?

Perfect Hair Focus offers many products to promote hair health, as hair is often one of the first things people notice, especially if the hair appears to be unkempt. Some of the products offered include natural shampoo, a coconut oil hair serum, volumizing hair conditioner, natural hair growth vitamins, and a hair supplement leave-in conditioner. They also offer products to help repair and protect the hair from heat damage. They have many products available for even the most discerning hair health aficionados and any person who cares about the health of their hair is encouraged to check out their full suite of products.
