January 14, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Rochester Home Pros, a Rochester home remodeling company has announced they will be expanding their business to include more communities in and around the Rochester, New York area. Now they will not only be offering their contractor services to those in the Greater Rochester Area but they will be doing work in many Rochester satellite communities as well. More details about this planned expansion can be seen on their website at <https://rochesterhomepros14618.business.site/>.

Rochester Home Pros describes themselves as a company that specializes in home construction, renovation, and general contractor services in Rochester, New York and the surrounding area. At this time they are not interested in doing any type of commercial construction services.

One of the company's spokespersons, Jeremy, elaborated a little further on what services will be offered after they expand; he says, "Don't let the title 'home improvement contractor' fool you. We are an all-encompassing general contractor that does a large variety of home improvements, renovations and remodeling work. There virtually is nothing we can't add to a customer's home to make it a much more comfortable place to live in. This includes such things as kitchen remodels, bathroom remodels, home additions and detached garages. We even are very experienced at handling the general contractor duties on very large sized construction projects.?

More details about what this home contractor can do for their Rochester Area customer base can be seen on their media room page at <https://www.pressadvantage.com/organization/rochester-home-pros4>.

This company is known for doing no charge onsite inspections. Once they are done with an inspection they will then give their customers a free estimate describing in detail the construction or remodeling work that will be done. Jeremy talks about how they like to help their customers from the moment they first call until their project is completed; he states, "We have many different ways we can help our customers get their finished renovation, remodeling or construction projects to turn out exactly as they had hoped. Our sales staff and crew leaders are very experienced and our prospective customers are even free to meet with our knowledgeable design staff. We make it a point never to push our ideas on a customer and prefer to help them realistically shape their ideas to practically meet their needs and their budget concerns.?"

Other projects that this company has gotten positive reviews on include their custom deck work and their ability to create workable accessory dwellings on someone's property. Jeremy went into detail about how these services of theirs can benefit a customer; he stated, "Custom decks are a great way to affordably create that extra living space that people sometimes crave. They can be done as an attached deck, island deck or even as a wraparound deck to increase porch space. Accessory dwellings are a popular way to give older children some supervised freedom or to keep an eye on elderly parents without the burden of placing them in a nursing home. We have many remodeling solutions such as these that we are always happy to discuss with our prospective customers.?"

One of their newest construction ventures they specialize in is the design and conversion of an exterior building or large room into a "man cave?". Jeremy tells us why these have become a popular specialty of theirs lately; he says, "A man cave does a lot more than just benefit the man around the house as the name implies. That's because we build these so they are fairly soundproof and the lady of the house is not bothered when her significant other is entertaining boisterous family and friends. So they basically benefit everyone in the household in different ways.?"

This registered and licensed home improvement contractor is headquartered out the Brighton area in the southeast portion of the Greater Rochester area. More details about their expanded service area coverage can be seen here at <https://goo.gl/maps/mq1BDsC1Sj32> on Google Maps.
