LiveEco has revealed that parents have used their emoji party favor bags as gifts for Valentine?s Day. These emoji gift bags are available from LiveEco in packs of 40, made up of 10 each of four kinds of emojis. LiveEco says that their party bags are ideal as gifts not just because of the ?cool? brightly-colored emoji faces on them but also because they have been designed to be sturdy and are guaranteed not to rip. This allows kids to use these bags to carry home candies, toys, and the like that they got from a party.

LiveEco spokesperson Christina Abels says, ?We?re happy to have found out that some parents have been using our gift bags as Valentine?s Day gifts. It may sound unusual but if you think about it, it certainly makes sense. Kids are likely to be proud to carry our brightly colored emoji bags. And with their no-rip guarantee, kids can put practically anything inside to bring home with them.?

That parents have used the party bags by LiveEco as Valentine gifts is evidenced by the feedback that they have provided. For instance, Kristin H, in a five-star review, said, ?We gave them out as Valentine's Day gifts to my son's first grade class. They were a huge hit!?

As previously mentioned, the party bags are popular as kids birthday supplies because they are provided with a lifetime ?no-rip? guarantee. Christina Abels points out that this is also one of the reasons why this particular product has been listed as ?Amazon?s Choice?, because customers have peace of mind that these bags will not tear or rip from the weight of the items inside the bag. This is essential for party bags for kids because they tend to be rough on things that they carry. Kids will surely be very disappointed if the contents of the bag gets spilled because the bag gets torn or ripped.

Each pack of 40 emoji gift bags has four different styles of emojis, namely, 10 laughing with tears of joy, 10 blowing a kiss, 10 crazy face, and 10 smiling face with heart eyes. With four different kinds of emojis, kids are likely to find one that suits their preferences.

Christina Abels explains that are distinct characteristics of the emoji party bags that make them the ideal choice for both parents and teachers as gifts for kids. These include the vibrant colors; the environment-friendly LDPE plastic used as material for the bags; the large size of the bags that means kids would be able to put a lot of things inside them; the high-quality print; the use of 10 to 20 percent recycled materials; the absence of any unpleasant smell that can irritate kids; and the fact that the bags can be used for any occasion such as Valentine?s day, birthday parties, baby showers, and more.

Christina Abels says, ?Here at LiveEco, we are passionate about bringing life and personality to a party. We aim to help provide lasting memories for children of all ages to cherish for a lifetime. Whether it?s for a Valentine's day party, or for achieving an exciting milestone in their childhood.?

LiveEco is a company that has pledged to ensure sustainability in its products and manufacturing processes. Currently, this is being achieved by making sure that they have a carbon footprint that is as small as possible with their manufacturing processes. They are able to accomplish this through the use of recyclable plastic and similar materials in their products like the emoji party bags, partnering with Carbonfun.org to make sure that their shipping practices are carbon-neutral, ensuring compliance with environmental protections laws in their manufacturing plants, and donating a portion of their sales to environmental charities like Earth Justice and Rainforest Alliance.
