Law Offices of Kevin Cortright, a law firm in Murrieta and Palm Springs, CA, has announced that they can provide help to those who have been injured working at Amazon. Work injury Attorney Kevin Cortright points out that he and his team understand the challenges that Amazon workers who have been injured at work are facing. The law firm has extensive experience in providing assistance to injured workers. They can handle Workers Compensation Claims for those who have been hurt in Amazon facilities and warehouses in California. They can also represent workers who have been injured during the delivery of Amazon packages.

Kevin Cortright himself says, "I understand the demands that warehouse associates, warehouse managers, fulfillment associates, delivery drivers, and other employees working for Amazon experience daily. In such a demanding, fast-paced environment, injuries may occur. As a Workers Compensation Attorney and Amazon Warehouse Injury Lawyer I can help injured workers access the benefits to which they are legally entitled."

The law firm also wants to point out that because they accept work injury cases on contingency, clients do not have to pay attorney fees in advance. What they do is focus on getting the maximum compensation in exchange of a percentage of the recovery.

Kevin Cortright explains that because of the nature of work inside the busy Amazon fulfillment centers, there is a relatively high risk of workplace accidents. Because of lifting heavy boxes, or loading and unloading delivery vehicles, Amazon workers can hurt their back. It is also possible that an injury may develop over time as a result of the repetitive nature of the work. Furthermore, a slip and fall accident can result into a broken limb or serious head trauma. The law firm can help injured workers in filing their claim for worker's compensation, whether the injury is catastrophic, serious, or less serious.

Depending on the circumstances and the extent of the injury, injured workers may be entitled to one or more of the following: medical care, temporary disability payments, rehabilitative care, permanent disability payments, and job skills retraining benefits. Those who are family members of an Amazon employee who passed away due to a work accident may also be entitled to workers comp death benefits.

Kevin Cortright is also experienced in negotiating with insurance companies to attain a positive outcome for clients. And when there is negligence involving another person or business, he can also file a third-party liability lawsuit on behalf of the client.

Proof that the law firm is indeed capable of providing positive results for clients can be found in the testimonials that have been made by previous clients. For instance, Jim says, "Kevin took my difficult injury case and did an excellent job at getting it resolved to a positive outcome. I always felt I could call him or his assistant with my questions and concerns and get the answers I needed."

Another previous client says, "Kevin came to visit me in the skilled nursing center after my accident. My husband and I decided to hire him shortly after the incident occurred. He hired all of the experts that he needed to make my case. Even though the other side was not helpful in this process, Kevin worked hard to get me the money that I needed to pay my bills and to help me to get better physically, mentally, and spiritually."

Kevin Cortright has extensive experience in helping clients go through the process of getting the compensation and benefits they deserve for work injuries. He obtained an Associate of Arts degree from Fullerton College and a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Phoenix. He obtained his Juris Doctorate at the University of La Verne College of Law. His professional affiliations include the California Applicant's Attorneys Association, Southern District of California, and Central District of California.

Those interested in getting compensation and benefits for Riverside County Amazon work injuries can visit the firm's website or call them by phone.
