LiveEco, a company that focuses on being green while offering various products, has announced that people have been discovering many uses of their emoji party favor bags. The emoji party bags are available in four different styles, which each featuring a particular emoji. These party bags have been specifically designed for kids' parties such as birthday parties. However, parents and teachers have discovered other uses such as using them for fun classroom treats and rewards. They can also be used candy goodie grab bags and for carnivals and games because the bags are quite large at nine inches by 12 inches in size.

Christina Abels, spokesperson for LiveEco, says, "We have been pleasantly surprised by the fact that people have been discovering many uses of our emoji party bags. But on the other hand, it was really not that much of a surprise because our desire when we released those emoji party bags was for kids to have fun with them. What is happening is that parents and teachers are discovering ways to let kids have fun with the party bags."

A distinctive feature of the party bags, aside from the fun emoji images, is that they are made from durable and very strong LDPE plastic that will not rip or tear even if children fill them up with lots of goodies and prizes. In fact, the party bags are provided with a lifetime "no-rip" guarantee. This guarantee is the reason why this product has been listed as "Amazon's Choice" and has the most number of reviews for emoji party bags.

Christina Abels points out that the party favor bags have personality, which is all about making life fun and exciting for the kids. Every pack comes with 40 yellow gift bags with four different styles: 10 laughing with tears of joy, 10 smiling face with heart eyes, 10 crazy faces, and 10 blowing a kiss bags. The gift bags are ideal for mothers, teachers, and daycare workers to give to children as incentives and rewards.

With the emoji party bags, teachers and parents can become "cool" in the eyes of the kids. Using these emoji bags in kids' parties can enhance the fun and enjoyment experienced by the children. The result is that children get to create lasting memories that they will be able to cherish throughout their life. Whether it is for a birthday party or an important milestone in their childhood, children can build memories that last a lifetime with these LiveEco party bags.

Furthermore, parents and teachers can have peace of mind because of the fact that the party bags are made of environment-friendly LDPE plastic aside from these being so durable they can be used many times before they need to be disposed of. This effectively lessens the amount of plastic waste.

LiveEco is committed to doing business in a socially responsible manner, in a way that does not harm the environment. This is why they have been collaborating with CarbonFun to ensure that their shipping processes are carbon-neutral. They also make use of 10 to 20 percent recycled materials in manufacturing the party favor bags in order to have the smallest carbon footprint possible. They are also committed to using every possible sustainable manufacturing process available. Also, LiveEco donates a part of the selling price to environmental charities such as Earth Justice and Rainforest Alliance.

Those who want to know more about the party bags can visit the Amazon page for the LiveEco party gift bags. It should be noted that these party bags have garnered a lot of positive reviews. For instance, one Amazon customer gave the party bags five stars and said, "Great value and they're cute for a pre-teen or teen party where there was boys and girls. She really liked them and they held up." Another Amazon customer also gave the party bags a five star rating and said, "The bags are attractive and were the perfect size for our library gift bags. They were heavy enough to hold pencils, erasers, candies, etc., without easily tearing."
