Hoarder homes have become a popular topic in recent years. These are homes that have fallen into chaos and disrepair, sometimes creating serious conditions, due to the overwhelming presence of specific items. A hoarder traditionally hoards one specific item or type of animal, but some collect several different things. The end result is a home that is unfit as a dwelling. One of the most frustrating aspects of these homes comes down to the fact that selling them can seem like an impossible endeavor.
