An Arroyo Grande Home Protection Pros spokesperson says, "We are not trying to scare you when our experts give you home burglary statistics but the threat is real. In fact, the U.S. Bureau of Justice releases reports related to residential and commercial property burglaries every year and these are worrisome. One important figure you should remember: home theft occurs every 15 seconds. Leaving your home's security to chance shouldn't be part of your action plan. When it comes to securing your home from burglars, prevention is key."

First of all, Arroyo Grande Home Protection Pros offers free home security reviews for homes in Arroyo

Grande and surrounding areas so that homeowners will know whether there are gaps in their security systems. What the company is offering are home security systems with interactive security and video monitoring capabilities.

Arroyo Grande Home Protection Pros points out that there are three must-have security features for any home. These are home security alarms or burglar alarms, residential property marking, and home security cameras or video monitoring. Those who want to check out their offices can take a look at their Google Maps page at <https://goo.gl/maps/EWyQKMbigZ12>.

Burglar alarms are traditional and quite common but they are still effective in shooing away intruders near or inside the property. In fact, many policemen believe these alarm systems result in 90 percent of home invasions ending up as simply robbery attempts. And fortunately, these home alarm systems are now more affordable and there are better choices in terms of sensors. For instance, small homes and condominium units can use alarms based on ultrasonic detectors, while the magnetic sensors used for windows and doors are better suited for bigger homes.

Residential marking means "marking" all valuables with an identifying "signature." For real properties, this means placing window stickers, signages, postcodes, house number, and so on. The police even recommend marking very expensive items, such as antiques. These advanced forensic markings can now be made such that they are only visible under ultraviolet light. With these markings, the police will find it easier to identify stolen goods and thieves would find that it is much more difficult to sell these items in the black market.

Meanwhile, nanny webcams have started a trend for home security cameras with people realizing how important it is to keep an eye on what is happening in their home while they are away. Here, the home security camera sends out images to a base station and these images can be displayed on cell television, computer or phone. There are now various options for home security cameras. There are now wired or cordless cameras, outdoor or indoor, real or dummy, or any combination of these. These security cameras provide homeowners with peace of mind that they can keep an eye on their family members, loved ones and valuables at all times. These cameras also allow homeowners to keep a watchful eye on caretakers, service individuals, and even their children.

The Arroyo Grande Home Protection Pros spokesperson explains that when choosing a home security provider, homeowners need to consider a number of factors. These include how long the company has been providing their services, whether the monitoring station will be running 24 hours a day, whether support will be available 24/7, how well-backed-up the company's power supply for its tracking centers are, the kinds of training the company's crew underwent, and the kinds of equipment that the company's facility has.

The Arroyo Grande Home Protection Pros spokesperson says, "Not only will home security firms handle simple to complex installations for you, they will also handle monitoring 24/7 and reporting of intruders to appropriate authorities in case of security emergency situations."
