

Louisville KY Company Announces Roof Repair Services

January 31, 2019

January 31, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Louisville Roofing Guys in Louisville, Kentucky, recently discussed the wide range of services that they offer. The company states that not only do they offer full roof replacements, but state that they will also do the jobs that other companies will not, such as roof repairs and patching.

Kimberly Lee, a representative for the company says, "No job is too small for our team. We handle any issue that you have with your roof, and we treat all of our customers with the same respect and professionalism, no matter what the size of the roofing job. Customers can stay up to date with our posts on our website to learn more and to know when we update our services or service areas."

Lee states that many larger roofing companies prefer to focus only on complete roof replacements. She says that often, homeowners do not need a new roof but some companies will "talk them into" having their roof replaced anyway. She states that this is not how Louisville Roofing Guys work.

"We never try to convince our customers that they need something that they do not need," says Lee. "There is no reason to replace the entire roof when often a simple patch or repair job will do the trick. We have built our reputation on providing the most professional services to our customers, meeting their roofing needs in more ways than one, including matching their roof job with their budget.?

Lee states that the company has a number of reviews from past customers that reiterate their goal of always providing customers with just what they need. Here's another glowing review that states that the company did a professional job within budget for a customer. The company states that they always welcome feedback from their customers and urge their customers to leave them reviews so that others can get an unbiased opinion of the work that they do.

Roofing issues can come up when a home is older or when there are weather issues that can wreak havoc on even newer roofs. The company states that they see a lot of patch and repair jobs during the winter months when snow builds up on roofs and can often damage shingles and other roofing materials. They provide repairs and replacements of residential roofs and state that they never turn down a job, even the smallest job imaginable.

Lee states that they want their customers in the Louisville area to know that even if they need one single shingle replaced, they can call on them. One shingle, she says, can lead to the need for an entire roofing replacement if not caught and repaired quickly. She says that any homeowner who has noticed signs of roofing issues, such as shingles being blown off or even water damage on ceilings, can contact the company and they will send a professional technician out to survey the damage and to give the customer an estimate for the job that is needed.

Louisville Roofing Guys state that they will always keep their customers' best interests in mind and state that if a single shingle is all that needs to be replaced, then that is exactly what that homeowner will receive. Lee says that they never urge customers to replace their roofs unless a complete roof replacement is what is best for that situation. She says that each customer's home is evaluated on an individual basis to determine what that specific home needs.

Those who are interested can visit the roofing company on their official website to learn more about the range of services that they offer and to see their service areas. Lee states that those who are interested can also, ?Like us on Facebook? where customers can read even more reviews from other customers and keep up with any changes that the company has made or will make in the future. Lee says that they look forward to helping Louisville homeowners with all of their roofing needs.

###

For more information about Louisville Roofing Guys, contact the company here: Louisville Roofing Guys Kimberly Lee (502) 200-8440 support@louisvilleroofingguys.com W Main St, , Louisville, KY, 40212, USA

Louisville Roofing Guys

Louisville Roofing Guys is a full service roofing contractor in Louisville KY specializing in roof repair, patching, replacement, and installation. A+ rated and highly recommended and referred.

Website: <https://louisville-roofing-guys.business.site/>

Email: support@louisvilleroofingguy.com

Phone: (502) 200-8440

Powered by PressAdvantage.com