Los Angeles, CA ? For those who haven?t heard of Russell Brunson, he is an entrepreneur that has built the fastest-growing non-venture backed software company in the world. Over the past 10 years, he has built a following of over a million entrepreneurs, who come to him for advice and information on how to build their own business and quickly get their message out to the marketplace and their desired target markets. On top of that, he has also sold hundreds of thousands of copies of his books that popularized the concept of sales funnels as landing pages.

His new book, ?DotComSecrets? details how to get more traffic to a business?s websites, and gain exponentially more traffic than they have ever seen or experienced before coming to their landing pages. The secrets included in this book will help readers to increase conversion more than any other split test, headline change, or tweaks to landing pages could. For a limited time, readers can get his new book sent to their homes for free.

This book is not simply a "how to?" for internet marketing. It gets to the key cause of symptoms, and shows key processes, funnels and scripts that are proven to work by Russel Brunson. After running thousands of tests and perfecting the process, Russel wrote this book as a play by play secret shortcut for business owners or marketing professionals to scale any company online.

Tony Robbins has said that the book is, "A simple process that ANY company can use to geometrically improve their traffic, conversion & sales online."

In order to get a free copy, those interested can go to this website and let Russell know where to ship the book to. Once the small shipping fee is paid (the book is free), readers will have the ability to share this amazing offer to their friends on social media via platforms such as Facebook, Twitter, email, etc.
