February 01, 2019

February 01, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Harvey Home Protection Pros has announced the expansion of its home security services for homes and other properties in Harvey, Illinois. The company is a supplier and installer of home security systems and they want to point out that these systems are no longer expensive and are now more advanced because of continuous innovation from home security systems manufacturers. More information can be gleaned from their website or at <https://www.pressadvantage.com/organization/harvey-home-protection-pros>.

Shawn Borne, spokesperson for Harvey Home Protection Pros, says, "We are pleased to be able to expand our home security services in Harvey, Illinois and neighboring areas. In the U.S., there's a robbery that happens every 15 seconds (based on reports from the National Burglary and Fire Alarm Association). An average $1,700 is lost during a typical theft. So it's understandable why 1 in 4 property owners are buying and installing home security systems. Home security systems start as little as $10, but can easily increase with every item you include into the kit. This is precisely the reason many specialists recommend sitting down and identifying a household's needs before actually choosing the home security system."

Harvey Home Protection Pros offers interactive security systems that are tamper-resistant and can monitor the home 24/7. Such systems are equipped with wireless motion sensors with onboard cameras that provide visual feedback to allow homeowners to see what's happening in their home or property. Those who want to visit their offices can check out their Google Maps page at <https://goo.gl/maps/VapxwKsQ3hP2>.

According to Shawn Borne, homeowners and renters no longer have to worry about protecting their home or properties because wireless home security systems are now available for as low as $20 and can be set up in just 30 minutes. These systems are not low quality but can be depended on to secure the home or property. These can either be do-it-yourself (DIY) or professionally installed. DIY systems can be purchased at most hardware stores, electronic shops, and home improvement shops. These are affordable and are easy to install but it could be challenging for those who have no idea about wired versus wireless home security systems.

For those security systems that need to be professionally installed, these will require the assistance of a team of professionals from Harvey Home Protection Pros who are trained to install such systems. It should also be noted that these systems are much more expensive compared to the DIY ones.

Harvey Home Protection Pros points that homeowners and property owners need to make six considerations before signing an agreement with a home security monitoring company. These are making a choice between marketing companies versus home security system dealers; the fact that costs can vary a lot and homeowners should avoid being fooled by home alarm systems with attractive prices; avoiding companies that trick people into signing an agreement that binds them to their services forever; the possibility that some systems can be had free of charge in exchange for hiring the company for monitoring for a particular period or if a security check is provided in advance; the importance of pricing the devices individually; and determining whether the proposed add-on is really needed.

Shawn Borne also wants to point out that while it is possible to make use of DIY home security systems, for those who are planning to have their home secured the first time, it is advisable to get the services of home security professionals.
