Bruna Martins, manager at Artisan Furniture, says, ?This classic handmade range was first introduced in 2008, and is one of the most popular as well as one of the oldest ranges. The ?Granary? collection was first offered in acacia wood, with a darker finish and subsequently, the second edition was launched in 2012 under the name ?Granary Royale? with a natural finish in mango wood.?

According to Bruna Martins, this collection of furniture was twentieth century inspired and they are made completely from solid wood to provide a classic piece of furniture that is expected to last for many generations. This range of furniture has experienced success for a decade and is being made available by the manufacturer through Artisan Furniture. These wholesale furniture are being made by skilled artisans with the key features being: breadboard joints, wooden pegs, hand distressing, grooves, and chamfered edges.

This particular collection of handcrafted furniture have been designed to be appropriate for traditional English homes and cottages, including classic and colonial mansions. It includes the most popular furniture items such as the trilogy coffee table, corner TV unit, butterfly dining table, round drum chest, long extension dining tables, nesting stools, and more.

Meanwhile, in line with Artisan Furniture?s policy of empowering retailers, the furniture come directly from the manufacturer allowing retailers to customize each piece of furniture based on style and design, dimensions, and finish. And with lighter finishes being the present trend, the Granary Royale furniture are being made available in natural grain patterns, handcrafted turned legs, and wooden knots configuration. Of course, the darker version of the Granary Royale furniture in acacia wood is also available.

Bruna Martins adds, ?Granary Royale will be available from April onwards, for drop-shipping amongst our other products on the website. With our drop ship service customers don't need room or resources to store any products as we store all the products at our Leicester warehouse, which we then ship it directly to their customers? door step. Our customers enjoy free delivery within the UK mainland, there?s also no minimum order for value or volume.?

Bruna Martins also would like to point out that the evergreen home design of the Granary Royale furniture will never go out of fashion. This is evident from the fact that the Granary Royale range has been running successfully for a decade.
