Rockwell Trading is celebrating its 14th year in the business of changing people's lives through trading. Markus Heitkoetter founder and CEO of the said company has been so passionate about trading that he started sharing his strategies and knowledge about trading in 2005.

He started his company with only a few people in a small office space and now he has employees around the globe. His passion transcends to his team and his students.

Tom Scalise attended one of Rockwell Trading's 3-day Live Trading Summits in December of 2018. Here is what he had to say about it: "Markus and the team provided the attendees with a robust, jam-packed agenda on simplifying and improving trading experiences. Markus is a superb teacher who is totally dedicated to giving the systems, tools, and knowledge to advance the trading experience. The team (Debbie, Moriah, David, Flo, and Lyman) were very attentive to providing the attendees with one-on-one coaching to carefully make sure the Rockwell educational system was understood. Markus' success goes far beyond being a prolific Day Trader and Swing Trader by being a master communicator with an intense desire to see his client/students be every bit as successful as they desire. Markus and his team are committed to helping people achieve individual goals. It was a great 3-day experience that will last a lifetime."

Markus Heitkoetter and his team hope to bring new traders around the world valuable service by providing training on how to simplify trading.

Rockwell Trading also maintain an A+ rating with the Better Business Bureau which they are extremely proud of: <http://bit.ly/2Wu0SPL>.
