BIG3Media, a digital marketing agency in Vancouver, British Columbia, has announced that they are expanding their services for local search engine optimization. The company provides a wide range of services that are designed to help companies build and grow their online presence.

Randy Krochak, company Founder says, "We are positioning ourselves to continually dominate local business ranking. Local business ranking optimization is one thing that many companies fail to conquer. It is more significant than ever with Google Search and Google My Business continuous algorithm changes and updates and takes someone with experience in order to keep up with them."

Krochak states that the company understands that many business owners have no clue as to where they need to begin in order to stay abreast of the changes that are common with SEO, particularly with local SEO. He states that local search engine optimization is crucial for smaller businesses who may need to compete with others in their region, and that many business owners are not aware of what goes into ensuring that their company can easily be found on Google and other search engines. He states that the company's local SEO services help businesses to get noticed by the very people who need to find them.

"Local search engine optimization is important for those businesses that are perhaps competing with others in local communities," says Krochak. "Local SEO is important in getting a company listed on page one of Google as opposed to page two or three where their business is not likely to be seen. That first page is crucial if a business wants their local customers to find them."

Krochak says that expanding their services to include more businesses was always the aim of the company, and says that now that they have done the expansion, they can assist more smaller businesses in the Vancouver area than ever before. He says that any business that relies on local traffic, such as Chiropractors, Roofing companies or other locally based businesses, need local SEO in order to thrive. This ensures local customers can find them easily on search engines. He states that even businesses that have virtually no local competition need to think about search engine optimization for a local audience, otherwise those customers may still not know about the company or what it can offer them.

Big3Media has been providing similar services in the area since 1999. Krochak states that SEO has changed significantly since that time and that his company learns and adapts through all of the changes that have taken place in search engine optimization. He states that as a premier digital marketing and creative design agency, the company keeps an eye on the horizon, fully expecting changes to be made in how Google algorithms dictate what companies are listed on their first pages. He states that any design agency worth its weight will follow the same example and keep up to date on these changes in order to fully assist their own clients with their local SEO needs.

Krochak states that the agency's goal is to help those in need of search engine optimization and other digital services and to choose the best methods that will work based on the individual client's needs. He states that they offer a number of services to help clients to grow their businesses including SEO, social media marketing, press release distribution, email campaigns, blogs and others. Those who are interested in learning more can visit BIG3Media Digital Marketing Agency on their official website to get an idea of the range of services that the company provides.

Companies in the Vancouver area that would like to learn more about local search engine optimization and how it can help them to increase their customer base can contact the company through their website or directly by phone or email to schedule a consultation. Krochak states that the initial consultation will provide more information about what the local business needs and how they should proceed.
