HVAC Company Announces Emergency Furnace Repair In Louisville KY

February 05, 2019

Louisville, Kentucky - February 05, 2019 -
D & M Service Company, Inc. in Louisville, Kentucky has announced that they are offering emergency furnace repair for those in and around the Louisville area. The company states that during winter, keeping furnaces operating, particularly in northern states is crucial. They state that they provide emergency repairs for any furnace from any manufacturer.

A representative for the company says, ?Keeping one?s home warm in freezing or below freezing temperatures is crucial. Unfortunately, homeowners will not always know that there is an issue with their furnace, until that furnace stops working. Our emergency repair services will get furnaces back up and running quickly, so Louisville residents can keep their homes, and their families, warm during these colder winter months.?

The company states that they have decades of experiencing in repairing furnaces and urge homeowners who have noticed an issue with their furnace to contact them at any time of the night and day. The company says that they realize that these issues often happen during the most inconvenient times, such as on weekends or holidays. D & M Service Company provides emergency repairs, during the night, on weekends and on holidays, without additional costs to keep Louisville residents warm.

?These things happen,? says the company representative. ?One just never knows when a furnace will malfunction. And while some winter days are warmer than others, in general winter is cold. Cold weather calls for warm furnaces. We work to ensure that everyone has the heat that they need in these cold temperatures and we get to them quickly, often within an hour or less from the first point of contact.?

The company states that they have a team of qualified and certified HVAC technicians who are dispatched the instant an emergency heating call comes in. They state that they only hire experienced technicians to ensure that every job is done properly, and they state that they have someone available to answer all calls, even those that come in after normal business hours.

Emergency heating services are vital for homeowners when temperatures dip below freezing. The company states that they work with homeowners to help determine the problem and repair that problem as quickly as possible to restore heat to Louisville homes. The company representative continues to add that they never tack on additional charges for these emergency calls, and states that they offer maintenance services for after the furnace is repaired to ensure that these issues do not happen again.

The Louisville company states that they will provide emergency furnace repairs to customers in Louisville and the surrounding areas. They offer a wide range of services related to the HVAC industry including air duct cleaning, air conditioning installation and repairs and general furnace repairs and maintenance. Their emergency services are available for furnaces in the winter and for air conditioning systems in the summer months.

The company adds that they work with major brands, and have the knowledge and experience needed to provide emergency repairs on all systems. They offer a 100 percent customer satisfaction guarantee. They continue that their company is licensed and insured and state that those who are interested in learning more can do so by visiting them on their official company website. The company representative states that anyone who is having an issue with their furnace can contact them at any time and on any day of the week and get assistance for those issues.

Temperatures in northern Kentucky are expected to drop again over the next few weeks. D & M Service Company urges those who are having issues with their heating systems to contact the company immediately to schedule a service to have their furnace inspected and repaired as needed. The company states that those who need to schedule a routine maintenance or need an emergency furnace repair can contact them through a form offered on the company website or reach out to them directly by calling the number on the site.
