

EAD Labs Water Soluble Cannabidiol (CBD) Marks Its Debut Into The Cannabis Market

July 16, 2015

July 16, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Evolved Ayurvedic Discoveries, Inc (EAD Labs), a nutraceutical company in California, aims to deliver safe and effective holistic health solutions to the world. They have released their innovative water soluble hemp-derived CBD formulation, which has been combined with Ayurvedic herbs. As can be seen on <http://www.eadlabs.com>, this product is now available for licensing opportunities, as well as wholesale, private label and bulk purchases.

James Sol Radina, co-founder and CEO of EAD Labs says: "Side by side, our water soluble CBD, BioCBD?, is head and shoulders above every other CBD oil-based product in terms of bioavailability. We are excited to announce our revolutionary delivery technology to the world. We are looking for companies who want to join us in evolving not only the CBD industry, but the entire healthcare industry as well."

EAD Labs BioCBD? is an alternative to CBD oil-based solutions in a variety of important ways by providing a more safe, effective and affordable solution. This includes featuring the amazing benefits of curcumin in each product. Curcumin and Cannabidiol (CBD) are both clinically proven to support with inflammation and a number of diseases.

"We believe that BioCBD? & Hybrid NanoEngineering?, can evolve the entire healthcare industry," says Dr. Mewa Singh, Co-Founder and Chief Scientific Officer. "We have developed a method to encase a molecule or compound inside an all-natural molecule of curcumin and build a hybrid molecule that makes an insoluble formulation into a water soluble powder. In short, this discovery leads to a new generation of hybrid formulations of two molecules to attack a disease more effectively and safely. Both molecules have synergistic and potentiating effects on each other, also becoming 100% bioavailable."

Interestingly, the ability to do the same across over 100 other compounds has also been uncovered. "Thanks to the support of our Dr. Mewa Singh, who uncovered this breakthrough 8 years ago, we are now evolving the healthcare industry and want to affect as many lives as we can," adds Radina. "It's a huge vision, yet as we continue to partner with the right organizations, we will continue to make the necessary steps to see it through."

EAD Labs is trying to restore the value of CBD products and is looking for other companies to sign up to that as well. Bioavailable CBD is in high demand, particularly water soluble formulations. EAD Labs offers partners the ability to select their formulations and have them private labeled. At present, three companies are already using EAD Labs' formulations and shipping to customers in all 50 states.

###

For more information about Evolved Ayurvedic Discoveries, Inc, contact the company here: Evolved Ayurvedic Discoveries, Inc James Sol Radina 6198000577 james@eadlabs.com 315 S Coast Highway 101, STE U75 Encinitas, CA 92024

Evolved Ayurvedic Discoveries, Inc

EAD Labs, a privately owned benefit-driven Nutraceutical company, is committed to affecting positive social change and supplying consumers with the highest quality products. They are backed by 27 years of drug delivery research experience.

Website: <http://www.eadlabs.com>

Email: james@eadlabs.com

Phone: 6198000577

