Men's Soap Company, makers of the Coconut Oil and Shea Butter Shave soap product, celebrates its first year anniversary with favorable reviews from Amazon customers. "Our first year anniversary is a celebration of a milestone, an accomplished goal to establish our product as a strong brand that's seen through the reviews we have on Amazon.com. Our goal in the next coming years is to continue providing our customers with effective shaving products that truly match their needs," says company representative Shwan Abdulmajid.

The Men's Soap Company Coconut Oil and Shea Butter Shave soap is designed for all types of skin, particularly those with sensitive skin. Studies show that majority of men have sensitive skin and they become more vulnerable during shaving. The most common symptoms include intense dryness, which manifests as small, itchy red bumps that erupt on the skin's surface. Other manifestations are severe ingrown hairs that are often common occurrences in men with curly hair. These hair follicles often curl toward the skin and create a bump on the surface, making them dry and itchy.

The soap is formulated to create a thick lather that prevents the blade from irritating the skin. It's preservativeand fragrance-free, and only uses vegetable-based plants in its ingredients. Shea butter, an ivory-colored fat extracted from the nut of the African Shea tree is added as a moisturizer, while soy is used to soothe and condition the skin. Other natural ingredients of the product include coconut oil and safflower oil, well-known for helping the skin retain its moisture and elasticity.

"Absolutely remarkable," says Wil, an Amazon customer. "I've used the product for about a week or so and from the first shave until now my face is left with a smooth, soft feel - no after shave lotion or splash needed. Even with a seasoned and well used razor, this shaving soap always resulted in a smooth, soft as a baby's bottom feel."
