Back and Body Pain Relief, a company that specializes in sports-related medicine, acupuncture, and physical and chiropractic therapy, is proud to announce that they now serve the greater Springfield, New Jersey area. Back and Body Pain Relief separates themselves from similar sports therapy companies by offering a modern and diverse set of services under their team of medical doctors, chiropractors, physical therapists, and acupuncturists. These characteristics allow the company to provide healing solutions to almost any physical issue a patient might come to them with.

No matter where a patient chooses to go for their medical care, the timely and correct diagnosis of their medical ailment is always critical. At Back and Body Pain Relief, a patient's road to recovery always starts with an accurate diagnosis. The company's team takes this step very seriously, as a diagnosis is used to generate an unique treatment plan based around the patient's lifestyle, other individual variables, and the diagnosis itself. This is why the sports-related treatment and therapy practice uses advanced diagnostic medical tools to make sure each patient is diagnosed quickly and correctly. The use of NCV/EMG tests at their practice, for example, allows Back and Body Pain Relief's medical providers to detect the presence, location, and severity of damage in nerves and muscles by recording electrical signals in painful areas.

Implementing accurate diagnostic practices isn't the only characteristic necessary for a successful treatment, however. Back and Body Pain Relief makes sure that they meet their patients' every need by offering a multitude of services. Almost any body pain, such as pain in the neck, hip, shoulder, back, or knees, can be treated at their New Jersey facility. "I've been visiting Back and Body Pain Relief for many months to treat several different sports injuries, including shoulder sprains, knee injuries, lower back pains, and IT band problems," said former patient Lingbo S. "They treated everyone one of these successfully with a variety of techniques. I'd recommend Back and Body Pain Relief to anyone who's looking for professional and responsible PTs."

This is extremely convenient for patients who need to see multiple doctors and undergo many different kinds of treatment for the same or multiple injuries. Offering all services at the same location makes it easier for patients with busy work or family schedules, patients who can't afford to seek treatment at multiple locations, or patients whose injuries make them less mobile get the treatment they need.
