Tub Refinishing Pros in Fort Worth, Texas has announced that they are now offering bathtub refinishing to customers in the area. The company states that porcelain and fiberglass bathtub repairs and refinishing, as well as ceramic tile reglazing, sink resurfacing and spot repairs.

Nancy Magoon, a representative for the company says, ?We are pleased to bring our years of experience to customers in Fort Worth. The bathroom should be a place of relaxation, with a bathtub that is perfect for soaking away the stress of the day. Unfortunately, bathtubs often begin to look dingy and can even leak with age. Our services are designed to give homeowners back the beautiful bathrooms of their dreams.? A complete list of the services that the company provides can be seen at https://goo.gl/posts/mtYqE.

Magoon says that even for homeowners that are considering selling their homes, bathroom repairs and resurfacing is necessary. From a real estate perspective, bathrooms are a huge selling point for a home. Magoon states that homeowners who are thinking of putting their homes on the market will want to take a look at their bathrooms and determine if they feel that resurfacing is necessary in order to command a higher sales price from the home.

?Real estate agents will tell their clients that one of the main features of a home is the bathroom,? Magoon says. ?A home with a grand bathroom, one that has a beautiful tub that just calls out for a nice long soak will typically capture the attention of buyers much more quickly than a home whose bathroom looks old and dingy.?

Magoon says that bathtubs can lose their luster after a few years as the glaze begins to wear down. Older homes may have bathtubs that have rust or other stains that simply cannot be removed. The company states that they offer a full range of bathtub refinished services that can turn virtually any old bathtub into a place that is designed for complete relaxation.

Magoon states that many homeowners, through lack of knowledge of these services, choose to completely replace their bathtubs as opposed to having them resurfaced, which can be a very expensive venture. She says that buying a new bathtub and having it installed can cost much more than a simple resurfacing job, but stresses that many consumers are unaware that their old bathtubs can be given new life. She states that those who are interested in learning more about the process can visit the company online at https://bathtubrefinishingfortworth.business.site/.

Magoon adds that the company does not stop at just the bathtub. She says that homeowners who are looking to completely refinish their bathroom for their own use or to prepare their homes for sale can contact the company to have any number of their bathroom features upgraded with new glazing or repairs. She says that most of their refinishing services can be completed in an afternoon, depending on the scope of the project, and that those who are interested can contact the company for a price quote and an idea of the timeline for the desired services.

Reglazing bathtubs is a simple process that eliminates the need for tearing out the old tub and replacing the plumbing and other aspects of the tub. Tub Refinishing Pros states that they can provide bathtubs with the repairs and reglazing that they need to look brand new again, without the frustration of purchasing a new tub and the cost of having it installed. Magoon states that the products that they use for resurfacing guarantee that bathtubs will look new again and remain looking new for up to 10 years or more.
