July 14, 2015

July 14, 2015 -

The Texas based mobile apps development company, Affordable Premium Apps, has just opened for business from their office in El Paso. The new company has already secured contracts from various businesses within months of emerging in the industry. Their primary market is aimed at small businesses and start-ups by providing cost-effective alternatives to improve their offerings.

As a comparatively new company in the mobile apps development industry, Affordable Premium Apps believes there to be a huge potential for their services from an increasing number of small businesses. "With the economy on the upswing, small-to-medium-size businesses are thriving," the company explains. "There has never been a better time to enter this industry. With Mobile Apps becoming a mandate for all businesses, it is our mission to help them meet and exceed the standard."

With more than 64% Americans owning a smartphone, there is an increased demand for apps, and businesses require apps to connect with their customers and keep on top of functions of their companies. Premium Apps, therefore, caters specifically to small and medium business needs, which have historically been unable to afford paying for developing company apps. The reason is explained by Premium Apps, "We create highly effective apps that are simple to use, but for only a fraction of the traditional cost. We are able to do this with new and more efficient technology."

The company designs apps keeping in close contact with their clients. Any further changes are offered to be incorporated into the app periodically to stay relevant in changing economic environments. A consultation session is followed by the app being designed for simplicity. The development of the app is collaborated with Premium Apps' clients to ensure consistency. The final product is delivered to the client for their approval. "We can speedily develop carefully designed Mobile Apps without sacrificing quality and flexibility," they express, ensuring customer satisfaction.

With more than 1000% increase in mobile app usage in the last 2 years, Affordable Premium Apps has made a calculated entry into the market. Prospective clients can read more about the company by following the link,
