Red Spot Marketing (RSM) is pleased to announce a free fourteen day trial of their services to potential clients in Edmonton, Alberta. The company provides digital marketing services aimed at increasing the visibility of businesses of varying sizes, thus fueling their growth. "We are pleased to have our new Edmonton location opened and ready to assist businesses in any way that we can," said company founder, Thomas DeNeve. "We provide a wide range of services, all of which are designed to help businesses to grow their customer base and revenue." More information regarding Red Spot Marketing can be found at <http://www.digitaljournal.com/pr/4159220>.

The company offers a wide variety of marketing services, with their goal being to help businesses grow and prosper. "Set your business goals and we'll use Social Media to help you accomplish those goals. It's that simple," stated the company. With a positive track record and a multitude of positive reviews from pleased customers, RSM has established itself as a trustworthy, successful marketing company, a fact that laid the foundation for their decision to allow potential clients the opportunity to experience their services with a free fourteen day trial. "Instead of trying to figure out how to use social media yourself or getting someone that doesn't have any idea what they are doing, get our team to do it for free now," advised Red Spot Marketing.

“Many businesses have likely heard of social media management,” said Thomas DeNeve. “Unfortunately, most of these are unaware of what it takes to really reach people online. Social media management is critical in today’s digital world. Billions of people use various social media sites, and if a business is not reaching out through social media to capture the attention of these people, they are seriously missing out on great customer base potential.” During the fourteen day trial, RSM will post and manage content on the client’s social media, engage with their online following through likes, comments, shares and so on, track results with weekly updates, optimise all social media accounts to make them as attractive as possible, research and utilise the most popular hashtags in the client’s industry, and likewise research and utilize a number of competitive strategies.

The trial program comes with no contractual obligations. Once the 14 days are done, it’s up to the client to decide whether or not they want to continue working with Red Spot Marketing. There are no hidden charges. Clients will be made fully aware of any costs and be given the option of whether or not they want to incur the charge or not. “Every business needs awareness and that’s exactly what we are doing: getting attention for your business/service,” stated the company. Those who wish to redeem their 14 day trial may visit <https://www.redspotmarketing.ca/free-trial> to get started.

Upon launching their two week trial, clients will receive an email with the Kickstart form attached, the completion of which signals the beginning of the trial. The form asks a number of questions regarding the client’s hopes for their business in the future. Red Spot Marketing strives to make these hopes reality.

The company has received a number of positive reviews from past customers. Jon Simcoe, CEO of Lion Properties said, “Red Spot Marketing is very dedicated to their work. They are excellent at creating and responding to ads. They understand the needs of my business and work to satisfy them. Without Red Spot Marketing, I would not have the revenue I have today. I highly recommend working with Red Spot Marketing.”

Another client said, “We have only been using Red Spot Marketing for a few months, but have already seen amazing results. Our social media volume has doubled, and more and more customers are attracted to the store because of what they see on our social media pages. The Team is very easy to talk to, will listen to your concerns and tweak as necessary. This has definitely been a great asset to our business and we will continue using this service.”
