ShowerMeister, a company that specializes in bathroom equipment, has been helping their customers make informed, educated purchases in bathroom appliances and hardware for over 15 years. For those looking to renovate a bathroom, install new bathroom equipment or appliances, or are simply unhappy with the quality of their water, ShowerMeister has a comprehensive review guide for products such as shower heads, shower filters, bath tubs, towel warmers, faucets, and much more.

With the start of the new year, ShowerMeister wants their customers to get accustomed with the advantages of installing a shower filter in their bathroom. Many people are unaware of everything that can be found in tap water, and what these additives can do to the human body. According to ShowerMeister, a good shower filter can minimize the risk of damaging skin disorders by 99%. Because skin is the largest organ in the human body, having healthy skin can improve overall health and wellness. Better skin isn?t the only benefit of installing a shower filter, however.

Ridding shower water of unwanted chemicals, toxins, allergens, and other impurities can lead to softer hair and skin, as well as improved function of the muscular, cardiovascular, and skeletal systems. ?I decided to give a water filter a try after reading the reviews in the hope that it would help with the excessive dryness, and subsequent tangling, matting, and breakage I was experiencing when I shampoo my hair,? said one

ShowerMeister customer. ?I was also experiencing dry skin and a lot of body pain and stiffness. After I started using my current filter, I got out of the shower as a new person. My results were immediate and dramatic.?

Removing chemicals, toxins, and other allergens that are commonly found in unfiltered tap water isn?t the only thing that shower filters can do. Some models of shower filters can improve the quality of water by removing unwanted additives, as well as supplement the filtered water by adding beneficial ions, minerals, and other bio-active elements. More advanced shower filters can even apply infrared treatments to water that can encourage stronger breathing, relaxation, healing, and energization. These beneficial treatments are important features, as shower water comes in direct contact with the skin, hair, eyes, and mouth.

The shower filters reviewed by ShowerMeister can be used with nearly any kind of shower head, and are rated based on performance, extra features, overall quality, price, longevity, and overall convenience of use and installation. The shower filter reviews are especially important for first-time buyers due to the variability of the product. ShowerMeister has reviewed shower filters that use metal mesh, cotton layers, KDF layers, Calcium Sulfite mediums, activated carbon mediums, and many more. Each of these types of filtration systems have benefits and drawbacks depending on what features the customer is looking for and the quality of water that is available to them.

Based on the reviews and ratings of many different types of shower filters, ShowerMeister suggests the AquaBliss shower filters for those looking for better water quality. As the AquaBliss shower filter implements a three-stage filtration method that utilizes Calcium Sulfite, activated carbon, and KDF55 process mediums, the filter has extensive filtering functionality. It can remove chlorine, various micro-metals, harmful elements such as mercury and cadmium, pesticides, fungi, and bacteria.

The shower filter can also soften hard water, which is perfect for those in rural areas that rely on well water that typically has high mineral concentrations. Those interested may visit ShowerMeister?s main website to read more about the AquaBliss Shower filter. ?The AquaBliss filter is the first shower filter I?ve ever bought,? reviews one AquaBliss owner. ?My skin felt noticeably softer after showering and, months later, it still works the as well as the first day I bought it. My AquaBliss doesn?t affect my water pressure at all, and I got to keep the same shower head I had before I purchased the filter.?
