March 04, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Better Lawns & Garden, a nationwide team of lawn, garden, and home Do It Yourself (DIY) experts, is pleased to announce that they have begun reviewing outdoor and DIY products, as well as providing advice on how to care for homes, lawns, and gardens.

The Better Lawns & Garden team is made up of industry experts with a passion for helping homeowners and gardeners find the best tips, tricks, and products for taking care of their projects. "Whether you are looking for a high-quality air compressor, a new lawn mower, or even an outdoor clock, a member of our team likely has experience with the product. We combine our expertise with detailed research and testing to find the best products for you," says the Better Lawns & Garden team.

Through blog posts and other forms of correspondence, Better Lawns & Garden provides customers with advice from a team of industry experts on a number of different tasks, from completing a DIY project to making lawns greener.

The organization will research and provide as much information as possible about any product a customer might ask them about. "If you have a question about a product or project, send us an email and we'll pass your question along to a member of our team. This helps us understand what you need so that we can curate relevant content and product reviews," says the Better Lawns & Garden.

Better Lawns & Garden has already posted a number of reviews pertaining to different items on its site. Items like snow blowers, for example, have informative, detailed reviews providing helpful information on the uses, advantages, and drawbacks of the product. The review discusses the fact that the winter season creates a need for a device that can clear snow from driveways, introduces the snow blower and related criteria, and then gives the customer three relevant categories to pick from, the Editor's Choice, Value Pick, and the Contender. Each of the categories comes with a price check option, a "bottom line" review of the product, and a description coupled with its specifications. Finally the editor shares insights gained during their own experience of using the product.

The team's review also informs customers of what to look for when evaluating snow blowers on their own. So long as the unit is lightweight and easy to maneuver through snow and slush, this won't be a problem. More coverage means more weight, so keep that in mind," Better Lawns & Garden concluded.

"Our main goal is to always provide you open, honest, unbiased reviews and insight," says the company. "We are not taking any sponsorship from any manufacturers, so you're getting firsthand reviews and genuine information you need with no hidden agenda. If you've already completed your own research, and you're feeling ready to invest in any outdoor product, please check out our reviews."

Better Lawns & Garden provides similar reviews on a number of different products in several different categories. From chainsaws to outdoor clothing and accessories, the team provides thorough, informative perspectives on an expansive selection of items. "Our team has expertise in a wide range of construction, lawn care, and other home and garden related projects, and members are excited to share their experience and recommendations with you," affirmed the team.

More recent reviews and instructional articles focusing on the fast approaching spring season can be found on their website. As noted in their "Spring Lawn Preparation" article, "As spring comes into full bloom each year, millions of people around the country await the season with excitement for all that this time of year normally holds." The article goes on to deliver a comprehensive explanation on how to take care of one's lawn and get rid of weeds.

With its team of experts and years of experience, Better Lawns & Garden is a reliable source of gardening information. Those looking for reviews and instructional articles may visit their site, which also includes a full list of contact details.
