Cleanway, a cleaning service with a strong interest in using only the best products for a particular job, has begun offering product reviews offering advice on what to look for in the top cleaning products on the market.

Cleanway stated that they work on, "returning your life back to normal, whether it be in the face of a flood or fire emergency, environmental concern, or spilled wine on your favorite rug." The company has years of experience in dealing with a wide variety of cleaning jobs, from tidying up households to cleaning up after a natural disaster or other major crisis. In addition to their cleaning services, Cleanway lends their expertise to reviewing cleaning products to try and give the public tips on the sort of cleaning products they should be using.

"For the right tools to clean your bathroom," the company has a number of recommendations. "No one wants germs. Whether it's cold and flu season in the winter, or beautiful weather in the spring, no one wants to waste their time getting sick," noted Cleanway. This, says the company, is why antibacterial products have begun flooding the market, with many of them now being chemical free. "Our testers washed with numerous soaps to evaluate all aspects of these antibacterial cleaning products," stated Cleanway. "They scrubbed and washed, and washed some more, to find out the best options available to consumers looking for an antibacterial soap." After all their testing, Cleanway recommends Dial Antibacterial Liquid Hand Soap, Aloe as their top pick, and Antibacterial Oregano Oil Soap as their environmentally friendly "green pick."

"When done right, there's nothing more satisfying than a clean bathroom—but without the proper cleaning products, bathroom scrubbing can be quite a chore. We've lined up our favorite items to help you cut through the grime, bacteria, and mildew. With these reviews you're in good hands," said the cleaning company.

Floors are a part of any home, and ensuring they're clean is of paramount importance. "Floors are not only the first thing people will notice about a clean home, but they're also critical for hygiene," said Cleanway. The cleaning company spent time dealing with hardwood, vinyl, laminate, tile, and concrete, among other types of flooring, to determine what products a person might need to keep their floors clean. After a number of ?extensive independent inquiries,? Cleanway chose Mr. Clean with Febreze as their top pick, and Aunt Fannie?s Vinegar Floor Cleaner with Eucalyptus as their green pick.

The company has a number of reviews and recommendations regarding everything from bath and kitchen cleaners to glass, laundry, and so on. The general purpose category saw Clorox Zero Splash Bleach Crystals, Regular Scent as the top pick and Grab Green Naturally-Derived, Non-Chlorine Bleach Alternative Pods, a plant and mineral based product meant to remove odors and brighten whites, as the green pick.

When deciding which product is best, Cleanway tested certain attributes of each product, with smell (or odor) being the most common one. ?We examined the scent of each product to determine if it smelled like chemicals and was effective in removing odors on different types of surfaces or materials,? said Cleanway. Power and Application were two more common categories. The goal of these two tests was to determine how good each product is at removing stains or bacteria and how easy they are to apply and use. Regarding the power of floor cleaners, Cleanway stated, ?our primary focus was making sure that you did not have to use a large amount of formula to get your floors cleaned the first time,? and regarding the power of antibacterial soap, the company said that, ?All soaps were tested on dirt/grime removal without causing issues to their skin. There is a certain balance between getting the dirt off well without irritating skin or causing dryness.?

Cleanway?s product reviews provide a valuable resource for anyone seeking advice on what products to use when cleaning. Whether it be for home cleaning or cleaning on a larger scale, Cleanway?s reviews are informative and useful. This is all in addition to the company?s own convenient, thorough cleaning service.
