Test Prep Club, an online-based company, helps students of all ages and education levels find study materials to help them get ready for standardized testing. The company has experts in test preparation, exam tutors for all levels of academics, industry professionals, professors and teachers, and even students on their team so they can deliver specialized suggestions and reviews for a plethora of test preparation materials.

With team members all around the globe, Test Prep Club assists thousands of students by connecting them to tutoring services, the best test preparation books, and other academic materials to enable them to meet their potential and earn the best scores they can.

Test Prep Club takes advantage of the industry experts on their team to gain a full understanding of the material on specific standardized tests, from high school level exams like the ACT and SAT, to graduate level exams such as the GMAT. Once the company gets all the necessary background information on specific tests and what kind of material will appear on them, they are able to start searching for potential study materials to recommend to their customers.

Their team?s experience with standardized exams allows the company to stay up to date on the best test preparation books, study materials, and tutoring services, as well as find and review the newest test preparation materials as soon as they come out. By reviewing and comparing all the resources available, Test Prep Club is able to suggest the best study materials to each customer based on price, content, and quality.

Using the guidance of their scholastic and industry experts, Test Prep Club has built up an enormous database of test preparation study materials. For the convenience of their customers, the company has grouped these products and services into three different categories: ?Expert Favorite,? ?Top Contender,? and ?Best Bargain.? The different study materials are sorted into these categories using a combination of the Test Prep Club team?s personal experience with the educational resource, reviews from their customers, expert opinions, and the costs associated with the product. The multiple processes that Test Prep Club utilizes to review and categorize different study materials guarantees an unbiased opinion.

?I have been using this service over the past semester, and I have gotten a lot out of it,? says Test Prep Club fan Reid F. ?By using the test prep books, flashcards, and online services that Test Prep Club has recommended, I was able to raise my overall scores, and I can see my practice test scores rising by the week. As someone who has taken almost every prep course out there and has tried many different strategies for the GMAT, I can say that the reviews and selections of the materials by the Test Prep Club is what gave me and my scores a competitive edge.?

For those beginning to prepare for the GMAT, the Test Prep Club has an extremely large range of reviewed and suggested study materials for that exam in particular. Visitors to the company?s website can browse test preparation resources in categories such as prep books, practice exams, mobile apps, study aids, flashcards, problem sets, online and in-person prep courses, and one-on-one tutors. Within each category, the Test Prep Club has selected an ?Expert Favorite,? ?Top Contender,? and ?Best Bargain.? Underneath the three top choices is a short summary of the contents of the product or service, its price, and a small list of benefits and drawbacks so customers can receive a wholly unbiased review of the study materials.

?I?m the first person in my family who is planning on taking the GMAT,? says Test Prep Club user Jack S. ?The amount of study resources available for the exam is huge, and I had no idea where to start as no one I knew had any experience with it. Test Prep Club allowed me to find resources at prices I could afford. I suggest this service to anyone who plans to take any kind of standardized test, but especially those who are planning on taking the GMAT.?

?To learn about what we do or to view the study materials that we suggest, visit our website,? advises Test Prep Club. Interested parties may select the ?Contact? tab on the homepage of the website to subscribe to the company and receive news about the newest study materials available.
