The emoji designed party favor bags from LiveEco recently received Amazon's prestigious Amazon's Choice status. The Amazon marketplace awards this status to products that are highly rated and well-priced, and available to ship immediately upon ordering. The emoji bags offered by LiveEco currently have numerous five star reviews on Amazon, and have become a customer favorite for party bags for children.

Christina Abels, a representative for LiveEco says, "This is truly an honor. To be recognized as a top seller and a customer favorite is something that every company strives to achieve when they sell on Amazon. We could not be happier that our emoji bags have been so well-received by our customers and that the quality meets Amazon's standard for good products."

Abels says that the bags, which measure 9 inches by 12 inches, are perfect for party favors at birthday parties or other celebrations. She says that the emoji design is a highly popular one at the moment, and that the company's bags offer four different designs. Each 40 pack of bags has 10 each of four different designs. The company states that they chose the most popular emoji designs based on research done into emojis from texting and various social media sites.

In addition to their coveted design, Abels says that the company's bags are environmentally friendly. The bags are made with up to 20 percent recycled materials so that they have a lower carbon footprint, which also makes them more appealing to parents who strive to teach their children about the benefits of going green. The company states that they also work with another company to ensure carbon-neutral shipping for their products in an attempt to lower their carbon footprint even further.

“We know how important it is for consumers today to choose environmentally friendly products,” says Abels. “This is just another way that we strive to give our customers what they truly want.”

Amazon deems products worthy of their esteemed Amazon’s Choice status based primarily on the quality of the product. Abels says that the company has designed the bags to be sturdy. They offer a no-rip guarantee for the bags, which she says is not typically provided for party bags. Abels adds that while the company has designed the bags to be cost-friendly for parents and fun for kids, they have not overlooked the importance of overall quality and design in these or any of their offered products.

The bags currently have more than 200 customer reviews, most of which have gained them five star status. Abels states that the company always encourages new customers to read through their past customer reviews to get a better idea of the overall quality and design in their bags. She adds that customers who have purchased the bags are always encouraged to leave their own reviews based on the quality and design, as well as the cost and shipping time provided. Abels states that it is these customer reviews that have helped them to reach their Amazon’s Choice status and she states that they ensure that all of their products are designed with consumers in mind with special focus on the cost and the overall quality of those products.

Those who are interested in learning more about LiveEco and their current status on Amazon can visit them on their seller’s page for a complete list of the products that they currently offer. Abels states that the company can be contacted through the Amazon site or by email. Customers who have specific questions about the company’s emoji bags can ask their questions on the Amazon page for that product. Amazon states that when choosing company’s for their prestigious title, they also consider the communication efforts put forth by those companies with their customers. LiveEco currently answers questions on their Amazon page in a very timely manner, and questions by other customers can currently be viewed on the product page for the party bags.
