LiveEco, a popular company that provides emoji designed products, recently announced that they currently have a full inventory of their favor bags for kids ready to ship. The company recently received the honor of being listed as an Amazon's Choice due in part to their fast shipping.

Christina Abels is a representative for LiveEco. Abels says, "We always try to ship our products out quickly. These emoji gift bags became so very popular so suddenly that we worried that we would not be able to keep up with demand. Fortunately for us, and for our customers, we have an unlimited supply in our inventory now that are ready to go."

Abels says that the popularity of the bags is based partly on their design and partly on the fact that they are manufactured with recycled materials. The company uses up to 20 percent recycled materials in fact, in making the bags, something that Abels says really appeals to their customers.

"Consumers today are looking for ways to go green," says Abels. "Our bags will definitely help them with that, and we work with a special shipping company for carbon-neutral shipping, which helps to further that desire to go green.?

The bags all feature an emoji on the front, one of four different designs. Abels says that the company uses the most popular emojis and each pack of 40 bags contains 10 different bags in one of the four designs. The bags are larger than regular party favor bags, measuring 9 inches wide by 12 inches long, another fact that Abels says has made them so popular.

Abels says that the company has currently been able to keep up with customer demand, although the bags are one of the best selling items on the Amazon marketplace. She states that while they do not foresee any issues with their inventory, customers should note that the bags are very popular for school and birthday parties and sales could continue to increase in the future. She urges those who are considering the bags to order as quickly as possible.

“We keep a large inventory on hand,” says Abels. “But customers do have to realize that these are a best selling item. While we make every plan to keep our inventory stocked, customers continually try to deplete that inventory. We want to make sure that everyone gets the bags when they need them, which is why we always recommend ordering as early as possible, just in case.”

So far, customers have had no difficulties in getting their party bags on time. Customers have left numerous reviews based on the design and quality of the bags, as well as the fast shipping time that has been offered by LiveEco. Abels says that this is not going to change in the future. She states that one of the things that makes LiveEco a customer favorite is their fast shipping and the company plans to continue to provide their products to customers as quickly as possible.

The company states that customers are always welcome to leave them a review, and they urge customers to take the time to read through their current reviews. Abels states that reading these reviews can help customers to determine if the bags are right for their needs. The company’s emoji party bags currently have more than 200 positive reviews on their Amazon page.

Abels says that parents, teachers and others are using the bags for a number of purposes from treat bags at parties to gift bags. Teachers use the bags as incentives to fill with learning essentials for students and parents claim that they are planning birthday parties for their children around the emoji theme and that the bags make the perfect party favor bags for these events. Those who are interested in learning more about the bags can read through the reviews on Amazon or contact the company directly through their Amazon seller’s page or by email with any questions.
