Northco Fire Offers No-Contact Gas Fireplace Maintenance

May 15, 2020

Fort Collins, Colorado - May 15, 2020 -
Windsor, Colorado based Northco Fire, a fireplace maintenance company, is reaching out to the wider community to announce that they are providing no-contact gas fireplace maintenance. Since the company was established in 2012, they have been providing excellent fireplace maintenance services in Windsor and the surrounding areas.

Brian Kelly, a representative for Northco Fire, says, ?While there is a global pandemic going on, you might think it is impossible to get your fireplace maintenance done. But there is no need to worry. While the safety and health of our customers and our employees is always and will always be Northco Fire?s main focus, we are pleased to announce that we are able to provide no-contact fireplace maintenance services across all our service areas. Northco Fire is strictly following the CDC and the WHO's guidelines for proper social distancing, but we also know that fireplace repairs and servicing may be necessary during these uncertain times.?

He continues, ?With the pandemic going on, your first priority has to be ensuring that you don?t unexpectedly face any new unwanted issues. Having been in the industry for nearly a decade now, we can attest to how important repairing and maintaining your gas fireplace is if you want to ensure that it doesn?t unexpectedly break down. Preventative gas fireplace maintenance will ensure that your gas fireplace remains safe to use, improve its performance, enhance it?s expected lifetime, and also make sure that it doesn?t become an eyesore with discolored glass.?

The company states that gas fireplaces should be inspected once a year at the very least. According to Northco Fire, proper maintenance and inspections often involve gas lines, so an inspection is not something the average homeowner should take on alone. The company highly recommends contacting a professional whenever a project involves a fireplace/a gas line as they typically evaluate all aspects of the gas fireplace during every inspection.

Kelly says, ?You have to check all parts of the fireplace. With the exterior, you expect a certain degree of wear and tear, but only a proper evaluation will reveal signs of damaged glass doors, vents and other structural components, all of which can lead to greater issues if left unchecked. We also check the interior for problems with the gas valves, pilots, or thermocouples. These components help ensure gas is flowing to the fireplace in a safe manner. During an inspection, we also check for things like dust buildup, dirt and, yes, even bugs and spiders. These things can not only result in fireplace inefficiencies but also flammable hazards.?

The company also inspects the damper and the flue, both of which are some of the most important elements of a gas log fireplace. The damper allows combustion gasses to escape through the chimney or ventilation systems built into the fireplace. Dampers must be opened at all times when gas fireplaces or wood-burning fireplaces are in use. The flue is the part of the fireplace that helps force harmful combustion gasses outside. When a flue isn?t working properly, these harmful gasses could prove fatal. Kelly says, ?The kind of thorough inspection that Northco Fire does will not only ensure that your fireplace lasts longer and performs better, but it could also save your life from the exhaust and harmful vapors. Plus, getting an inspection and the necessary repairs/maintenance done before they become an absolute necessity will also save you a lot of money.?

The services provided by Northco Fire have allowed the company to establish a base of loyal clients. Northco Fire is accredited by the Better Business Bureau and maintains a BBB rating of A+ as well as a customer rating of 5/5 Stars. Randy M. says in his review, ?Northco Fire gets my highest recommendation. They gave me a one-hour window appointment and arrived on time during the first part of the hour after a "heads up" call that they were coming. Professional and efficient, they cleaned, repaired, and did some long overdue maintenance on my fireplace. Very nice and friendly, they explained what they were doing, how the unit works, and offered advice on how to improve its performance. They also took great care in keeping the surrounding area clean. The cost was fair, reasonable, and affordable. I'll definitely be calling on them again!? Those interested in reading other reviews can find Northco Fire on the BBB.

Meanwhile, on the Google platform, the fireplace maintenance company has a near-perfect rating of 4.9/5 Stars. In a recent 5-Star review, Margaret Zamzow shares her experience with the company, saying, ?Joel did a complete cleaning of our fireplace, our gas burner, and pilot fixture. He discovered that our wall switch needed to be replaced, and the invoice price was so reasonable. We plan to only use Northco Fire for future maintenance?thank you so much, Joel, for allowing us to use our gas fireplace again!?
