March 20, 2019 -

Dr. Amauri Caversan, ND, of the Dr. Amauri Wellness Centre in Toronto, Ontario has announced that they are offering a new range of services to clients. Previously, the center offered facial acupuncture, but they now state that they are no longer offering this service. The Naturopath in Toronto states, however, that traditional acupuncture is still available, along with other wide range of wellness therapies.

Dr. Amauri Caversan, ND says, ?Our center provides a wide range of services to clients, which include various naturopathic care modalities. Studies show that naturopathic care offers many benefits, and we focus on these therapies to help many client concerns.?

Among the offered services are bio-identical hormone replacement therapy, testosterone replacement therapy, traditional acupuncture, thyroid support, cold laser and shockwave therapy, a personalized detoxification program, and naturopathic weight loss program among others.

?We begin with a consultation to help determine the best route of treatment for our clients,? says the Naturopathic Doctor. ?The treatment chosen depends on what the client needs with regards to their overall health or anything that they may currently be going through, such as cancer support care, obesity or other health concerns.?

Dr. Caversan, ND adds that the center?s website offers detailed information on all of their therapies and their benefits to clients. The center urges those with questions to read through their available content, which includes specific benefit information for each of their offered services.

The center focuses on overall wellness, offering programs that are designed to help transform the health of their clients. These programs include a comprehensive medical evaluation and a number of other services from brain and body exercises to hormonal support and continued care.

Clients who ask themselves, ?What is a naturopathic doctor? or who have questions about any of the therapies or programs that are offered by Dr. Caversan, ND and his wellness team can visit the center online to learn more.

Dr. Caversan, ND and Arv Buttar, NP state that they strive to provide overall wellness and that they pride themselves on their wellness offerings. Clients who are interested in scheduling an appointment with the center in Toronto can contact them directly by phone or email.

Dr. Caversan, ND states that the center works with clients of all ages and all backgrounds, offering treatment and therapies for any number of medical or health concerns. Those who are interested in learning more about these benefits can visit their website to read through their services and posts pertaining to their wellness treatments or contact the center directly to speak with an experienced staff member for answers to any questions. Contact information can be found on the center?s website.
