March 21, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Mulgas Ltd. is pleased to announce the launch of its boiler repair services in Guildford. The company, which was established in 1998, offers a variety of services related to boiler repair. They welcome clients of every sort, including homeowners, landowners, and letting agents specialising in central heating repairs, service and installation.

Mulgas Ltd is ready and able to work with old and brand new technology, having plenty of experience with both. The company has a team made up of a spectrum of young and old professionals, and thus is able to boast an understanding of modern and old practises alike.

Guildford residents can expect to receive same-day services from Mulgas Ltd. The company prides itself on getting heating back on without making clients wait and stocks all the most common parts that break for a wide variety of boilers, allowing them to fix most boilers on short notice. Between August 2014 and September of 2015, Mulgas managed to repair 87.7% of broken boilers on their first visit alone. More information regarding Mulgas? boiler repair services can be found at <http://www.mulgas.co.uk/boiler-repair-service-guildford/>.

Each of Mulgas? engineers is qualified and has years of experience, being Gas Safe registered. They receive up to three times more training than their competitors and attend to over 50 breakdowns a day on average. Mulgas's repairs cost 27% less than the national average, and the company prides itself on its refusal to add any hidden fees. Clients can rest assured they will not be charged for parking, travel, or anything else that Mulgas' competitors might normally charge for. Additionally, each repair comes with a free twelve month guarantee.

Mulgas has created a list of twenty two top boiler faults. "Remember, every component in your boiler and heating system has a "clock" in it. Well, here's how to wind that clock backwards and help prevent your tenants' boiler breaking down. It's our "22 point heating health check," says the company. For £1, Mulgas will help client prevent any of the twenty two top boiler problems from ever occurring.

The 22 most common issues with boilers are: System pressure loss, header tanks running dry, Co/co2 ratios "out of adjustment, system controls set up incorrectly, thermostatic radiator valves sticking, zone valves jamming, wireless programmable thermostats losing connectivity, combination boiler plate heat exchanger blockages, corrosion " sludge, pumps jamming, magnetic filters blocked, radiator flow imbalance, water leaks, un-lagged condense pipes, radiator valves sticking or leaking, air in system, thermocouples burning out, flue seals leaking, blocked feed pipes, pressure relief pipes "letting-by", cylinder balancing valves incorrectly set, and boiler thermostats being set too high or too low. Each of these issues is, according to Mulgas, completely avoidable.

The 22 point heating health check has seen great success. "It's proven to reduce breakdowns by 77% and it costs just £1. That's right, only £1 when carried out at the same time as a gas safety check," says Mulgas. For £1, Mulgas will check all 22 of these issues and work to rectify them immediately.

Mulgas, in addition to repairing boilers, offers installation of brand new boilers, and claims to be able to save their clients up to 35% or more on fuel along with five years of priority care worth £328. Customers who install brand new boilers from Mulgas are labelled "Premier Customers," and if they should ever find themselves in need of assistance, an unlikely eventuality, Mulgas promises to send them an engineer as soon as possible. Premier Customers are allowed to "jump the queue" when seeking Mulgas' services.

The company relies on a number of trusted manufacturers to provide them with their high quality, fuel efficient boilers. These manufacturers include Worcester Bosch, Vaillant, Glow Worm, Ideal, and Keston.
