Bryant, AR ? Big Rock Restoration, one of Arkansas' top roofing companies, is announcing its affiliation with the ?KangaRoof®? name. This means that Big Rock Restoration is now called ?Big Rock KangaRoof®? and is a part of the elite Roofers Success International Organization.

Currently, only ten other roofing companies nationwide have this distinction to be known as ?KangaRoof®?.

Big Rock KangaRoof® has been serving homeowners in the Central Arkansas area for 30 years and is owned by Todd Upton. It employs skilled craftsmen in roofing and construction and all are highly trained and work hard to maintain the reputation of excellent and timely service.

As part of the new name, the company has also introduced the ?We Hop To It? distinction. This means if one calls, particularly with an emergency situation, Big Rock KangaRoof® will definitely ?Hop To It?. And if they don't show up within the promised time, customers will be rewarded with $50.

Another benefit for homeowners in Arkansas is the opportunity to become part of the ?Overhead Care

Club?? which offers club members annual inspections, gutter cleaning, and priority guaranteed appointments at a discounted rate.

Mr. Upton, the owner of Big Rock KangaRoof®, says, "We made this move to brand ourselves as well as to gain access to the industry's most powerful organization, focusing on shared insights from other successful roofing contractors as to the best customer-focused practices. And customers are what we care about the most. We strive to treat your home just like we would our own."
