Jamison, PA based Peak Performance Tours is delighted to announce that their professional tour guides are making great strides in helping students get more out of their educational tours. "Our tour guides help incite discussion among students?getting out of the classroom can often create the right environment for the best lessons," said Bruce Rickett of Peak Performance Tours.

Peak Performance Tours, experts in travel guide services, assist clients with pricing for attractions, hotel and restaurant recommendations, estimated costs of transportation, and all the details to make it an experience to ensure that students will get the most out of their trip. Peak Performance Tour's professional tour guides are always available to answer any questions from students, and even help them figure it out in their own way.

The company's educational tours help students learn through exploring real life outside the classroom, as well as providing practical learning in key life skills outside their family situations. Complex topics can often be experienced in person, with students having the opportunity to understand and comprehend various concepts through live examples. These in turn, can give some insight into possible career choices as well as the enrichment of traveling somewhere they may never have been before.

Educators know that a field trip is a great supplement to what students learn from textbooks and lectures. Class field trips are crucial in fostering camaraderie among students and solidifying what they learn in the classroom. However, they often don't have the staff and resources to take care of all the details.

Many say that the best lessons happen outside the four walls of the classroom, and Peak Performance Tours is no exception. They consider the students as their clients and take into consideration their needs to create an itinerary they will love. Students have given feedback on their experiences on Facebook, which can be perused here: <https://www.facebook.com/PeakPerformanceTours/>. Alongside the feedback, those interested may browse the posts covering the many places the company has led students through?Atlanta, Los Angeles, Nashville, Washington DC and many more.

Peak Performance Tours offers educational tours across the US, from New York to Los Angeles and many points in-between. They also run class trips, senior class trips, and a wide range of performing arts trips. Planning a new, exciting trip every single year can be a challenge to most academic coordinators, and each class deserves their perfect trip.

Peak Performance Tours helps educators who are mainly concerned with this crucial question: ?What should my students learn in the end?. They assist these educators by building an amazing itinerary focused around three important factors: Location, Participation, and Purpose. ?At Peak Performance Tours, we don't believe in school trips culminating into a single, enlightening moment. Instead, we focus on building individual but equally stimulating moments that will impact students in multiple ways,? said Bruce Rickett of Peak Performance Tours.

For many students, a class or educational trip may be the first time they have been away from their home town without their families. ?Safe and secure? is how parents want them to be, so Peak Performance Tours ensures that comprehensive travel protection for educators and students is advised, as well as roundtrip transportation for the tours. Peak Performance Tours provides peace of mind to educators, parents, and students as they know they are in the right hands.

The company also creates some of the most innovative and creative drama opportunities for students. These give students the opportunity to be seen by thousands of people, and meet other students nationwide and around the world. Bands tours, choir and choral tours, orchestral tours, marching band tours?as well Disney Performing Arts, Dance Tours, Empire State Building Performance Tours, and more?all provide those one in a lifetime experiences which students will cherish.

Peak Performance Tours believes that Senior Trips are a great way for students to celebrate their high school career. Moving on from high school is a major life milestone, and students are always hoping to cap it off with a bang. Leaving behind the last four years of their life can be tough, for students as well as teachers. With new paths, new futures, and new destinations in store for everyone involved, it only makes sense to send students off with a proper farewell. Peak Performance Tours can offer that hassle-free experience and create the trip of a lifetime, with memories that students and teachers will never forget?as well as reach another level of learning and growth.
