March 08, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Contractors Insurance Solutions Inc has announced that they are specializing in workers compensation insurance for contractors in Los Angeles, California. As such, they are providing their services for all contractors across the state of California. The company services as a contractors consulting firm and they can perform an in-depth needs analysis for a contractor firm. There are various policies to choose from but the choice of policy is dependent on a number of factors such as the type of business and the number of employed workers.

Matt Rogers, owner of Contractors Insurance Solutions Inc, says, "We offer contractors consulting services in Los Angeles, California. One way that we are doing this is by specializing in workers comp for contractors in Los Angeles. California State Law requires that any business which has one or more employee must obtain workers compensation insurance. Creating the right workers compensation insurance package is one the most important business decisions you will make as a contractor."

Meanwhile, it should be noted that Contractors Insurance Solutions is owned and operated by a licensed

California contractor, which means that he is very familiar with the challenges faced by contractors in California. In this state, employers are required by law to purchase a workers compensation liability insurance for their employees. This insurance coverage is beneficial for the employer because it protects employees in case they get injured in the work place.

Since workers compensation is a requirement by the state of California for businesses that have employees, Contractors Insurance Solutions professionals sit down with each individual contractor to come up with a thorough understanding of the specific needs of the business. This allows the company to provide the optimal insurance coverage and rate for each particular client. The company understands that a contractor may not always have employees and that there is a down time in between projects. The company understands the business process of contractors when it comes to workers compensation insurance.

Meanwhile, Contractors Insurance Solutions, as a California contractors consulting firm, also offers surety bonds, providing California contractors insurance and the $15,000 state contractor's license bonds that are required of all contractors by the state of California. In addition, the company provides all types of construction bonds: bid bond, performance bond, release bond, payment bond, and all kinds of surety bonds in Los Angeles.

Contractors bonds offered by Contractors Insurance Solutions include the LLC employer worker bond, which is required by the contractors board for those who want to get an LLC contractors license. Another type of bond offered is the disciplinary bond for contractors. A contractor is required to obtain a disciplinary bond for two years if it has an issue or complaint. The price of the disciplinary bond will vary, depending on the credit score of the contractor.

Contractors Insurance Solution also offers the contractors license bond, amounting to $15,000 and is needed in order to obtain an active license in California. The company is experienced in getting the best price for applicants who have bad credit scores.

And then there are the SBA bonds, which are helpful for contractors who are unable to provide a collateral or don't have the financial strength to qualify for a performance bond and a bid bond.

Contractors Insurance Solution offers custom contractors insurance policies, such as workers compensation insurance, and contractors license bonds for various clients in southern California. Matt Rogers, who is a licensed California contractor himself, is familiar with the needs of the construction industry, and is therefore passionate in helping clients become bonded so that they could operate their business. The insurance programs are tailor-fitted to meet the specific needs of the contractors so that they will have the confidence to freely run their business, having peace of mind in the knowledge that they will be covered financially in the event of an accident.
