New Eyelash Comb And Brow Brush By Missame Claims To Solve Clumpy Mascara Problem

July 13, 2015

July 13, 2015 -

Missame LLC, a business in Sacramento, CA, have released their new eyelash comb and angled eyebrow brush combination set designed to eliminate the clumpy mascara problem. This product is designed to penetrate mascara-coated eyelashes, separating them so that they look even fuller. They state that more people, including makeup artists, will be better able to create amazing eyes.

Amy Ng from Missame LLC explains, "We are proud to present this product to the beauty and makeup community. We are committed to using high quality material for our products, and I am confident that this eyelash comb and brush combo will be a must have in everyone's beauty kit."

The eyelash comb has been designed to remove clumps of excess mascara. Compared to the traditional plastic eyelash comb, this particular model is far more affective when it comes to combing through the lashes after mascara has been applied. Additionally, being made of superior materials, the new comb is much easier to use and will not break.

Amy Ng adds, "Unlike most conventional eyelash combs, we use metal instead of plastic for the tines. Metal tines simply do a better job separating lashes. We also use top of the line copper ferrules for the duo-ended eyebrow brush. With cheap brushes, the most common problem people face is that the brush head breaks after a few months of use. The last thing we want is to have the brush head falling off during usage. We guarantee that our brush head will stay put or you get your money back."

Included in the bundle is a duo-ended eyebrow brush. This has a stiff, angled brush on one end, while the other end has a spoolie. Put together, these allow for far more natural eyebrow makeup application. As such, the product addresses both eyelashes and eyebrows, allowing people to create a truly beautiful look.

Amy Ng points out, "The professionals in the beauty industry rely on quality, yet expensive, tools in their trade. I want to provide the same quality at a more attractive price point by bundling both the brow brush and eyelash comb into one package."

The Missame eyelash comb and brow brush is currently available exclusively on Amazon.
###
For more information about Missame LLC, contact the company here:Missame LLCAmy Ng4153000269amyng@missame.com2701 Del Paso Rd, Ste 130-204Sacramento CA 95835

Missame LLC

Website: http://www.missame.com/

Email: amyng@missame.com

Phone: 4153000269