Antwerpdiamonds.direct, the reputed Antwerp-based diamond manufacturer, has announced that they are launching a new diamond price calculator for the benefit of their customers. The leading diamond merchant is known for their deep expertise on diamonds and is committed to providing access to the best quality diamonds for those looking to buy these sparkling stones.

"We are pleased to announce that we are launching a new diamond price calculator that can help our customers when they want to buy diamonds," says the spokesperson for Antwerpdiamonds.direct. "It offers an easy way of calculating the price of a diamond. You can select the diamond of your choice based on the 4Cs and generate a cost estimate using the diamond price calculator."

Carat, Clarity, Cut and Color are the 4Cs that are used by customers to judge the quality and grade of diamonds across the world. By using the DRB or the Diamond Retail Benchmark, they can know the expected price of diamonds in traditional retail stores.

Antwerpdiamonds.direct also makes sure that diamond prices are updated on a daily basis. The prices are displayed in Euros for the convenience of a larger, global audience. The price guide acts as a reliable, convenient, and quick reference tool for those looking to buy diamonds.

Antwerpdiamonds.direct is one of the leading resources for information about everything related to diamonds. Over the past three decades, they have amassed a reputation as a trusted diamond manufacturer in Antwerp, Belgium.
