LogicLux Launches Their New Rear View Facing Back Seat Baby Mirror

July 14, 2015

July 14, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

LogicLux, the in car accessories producer, has just launched its latest product: the Rear View Facing Back Seat Baby Mirror. The mirror, attached on the headrest of the rear seat, gives a view of the rear facing baby carrier. The manufacturers are promoting it as being one of the best products in its category. "Light weight yet durable, unique large oval design with shatter proof clear reflective mirror for optimum viewing of your infant," reported company spokesperson, Troy Davis.

Studies have shown a baby seat facing the rear of the car to be safer than one facing the front. However, while the driver cannot safely turn around to check on the infant, they are able to utilize the relatively new in car accessory to address this issue. The Rear View Mirror by LogicLux is one of many such devices that aim to counter this problem. The mirror straps to a head rest of a seat in the rear of the car and reflects the view of the baby sitting opposite it, onto the rear view mirror of the car.

LogicLux have touted higher quality standards and the unique design of the mirror to make it stand out from the other similar products. "With its 360 degree viewing angle, the mirror can be fixed on any headrest on the rear seats and does not rely on a center headrest to give the right view," said Davis, "You will also notice how the uniquely oval shape stands out among the run of the mill rectangular mirrors." Using a convex mirror allows more light to be reflected towards the rear view mirror and has proven to be a popular feature with customers. "It actually works out so that you can see more of the surroundings since it shrinks the reflection a little," reviewed a user.

Confident about customer satisfaction and the quality of their product, Logic Lux has offered a 100% money-back guarantee for the Rear View Facing Back Seat Baby Mirror.
