March 14, 2019 -
United Kingdom based Apex Pest Control (APC) recently published a blog post on their website to help local residents in finding the best pest control companies in Sheffield and its surrounding areas.

?Pest infestation is one of the major problems that affects homeowners in the Sheffield area. Pests have the potential to cause serious health problems and irreversible damages to a property. That?s why it is very important to find an exterminator who is capable of not only addressing the pest infestation, but also preventing it from recurring,? said Tony Johnson from APC.

According to a recently published article on The Guardian, the UK is now facing an exponential increase in bedbug infestation, especially in cities and other densely populated areas. In fact, pest control experts warn the general public that bed bugs are now slowly developing resistance to insecticides like DDT, making eradication even harder.

In addition, The British Pest Control Association (BPCA) also warns the general public about a species of mutated rodents dubbed ?super rats? because they already show resistance to conventional poisons like Warfarin. Johnson also explained that aside from bed bugs and super rats, some of the most common pests that affect homeowners in Sheffield and the surrounding areas include ants, bees, cockroaches, spiders, fleas, flies, squirrels, moles, and so on.

On the other hand, APC said that pests not only cause damage to property, but also pose significant health risks due to the pathogens that they carry. In fact, according to the World Health Organization (WHO), some of the more serious diseases caused by pests include dengue fever, malaria, lyme disease, leptospirosis, hepatitis, and more.

With this in mind, APC published a number of useful tips and guidelines to help homeowners find a reliable pest control company in the greater Sheffield area. The company advises residents to do a lot of research and gather the relevant information regarding a prospective service provider, especially when it comes to their licenses and certifications. They also explained that homeowners can check with a pest control company whether their pesticides passed the minimum requirements of the United States Environmental Protection Agency
USEPA or the UK?s Environmental Services Association (ESA).

In addition, APC also recommends hiring a pest control company with an active liability insurance to protect homeowners from unfortunate circumstances. ?Furthermore, you are able to assess a pest control company by simply looking at their reviews and feedback online. You may also check their history, license to operate, and customer guarantee policy,? noted Johnson.

Those looking for a professional pest control company in Sheffield, Rotherham, Doncaster, Barnsley, Leeds, North Derbyshire and so on may reach out to APC by calling their office hotline. The company has more than thirty years of experience in the industry, and APC is a proud member of the National Pest Technician Association. Johnson also mentioned that they work in close partnerships with local businesses, homeowners, and land management to get clients the most rapid, high quality, and affordable pest control in the greater Sheffield area. Furthermore, they are considered one of the leading pest experts in the area, based on a number of positive reviews and recommendations received online.

Viviane Ferraz, in a Google review, said, ?APC has the perfect combination of pest control knowledge and amazing customer service. They have solved our problems with pesky pests in no time. Tony is very professional, with great attention to details. I would recommend them anytime and will definitely use their services should we encounter any pest-related problems again in the future.?

Jordan Livett, another satisfied customer said, ?I?ve had a problem with mice infestations for a long time until I got in touch with Tony from APC. He was very professional, and his pest control approach completely solved my long-time problem with mice. I was so impressed with the results. Highly recommended.?
