

Bonfires at the Beach Offers Beach Bonfires On 30 A

March 27, 2019

March 27, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Bonfires at the Beach in Sana Rosa Beach, Florida has announced that they are open for the season and ready to take bonfire orders. The company is currently offering a temporary discount on select beach bonfire packages, with prices beginning at $245.

The company states that they offer more firewood, larger fire pits and a professional crew for beach bonfires. Beach bonfires enables customers to choose to bring along some of their own chairs and other items or rent those items at a small additional cost to create a custom package. Each bonfire package includes setup and tear down of the fire pit, all needed legal county permits, a Smores kit with roasting sticks and firewood. Those interested can learn more about the various packages at <https://sites.google.com/view/bonfires-at-the-beach-30a/>.

Bonfires at the Beach owner, Ashley Vickers, says, "We have been offering beach bonfires to locals and visitors for several years and realize that the quality of firewood, the condition of our equipment, and a high level of service are the top priorities to vacationing families and locals. All of our equipment is new. Our chairs are only used for our beach bonfire setups. This means the chairs are clean and new - not banged up, faded, and covered in suntan lotion."

Bonfires on the beach are a tradition that residents and vacationers have been enjoying for many years. The main problem that vacationers have is not knowing where bonfires are permitted or what needs to be acquired before bonfires can be built. Special permits must be obtained in order to legally have a fire pit on the beach. Vickers says that the company obtains these permits and provides everything else that is needed to make the fire pit legal, so that the company's customers can just sit back and enjoy their bonfire. Those planning a visit to the area who would like more information on the legalities of bonfires on Florida beaches can visit the company online at <https://bonfires-at-the-beach.business.site/>.

Those visiting Florida beaches have also found that bonfire setup can be expensive, due to the fees paid out to third parties for booking. Bonfires at the Beach owner, Ashley Vickers says, "We recognize that bonfire setup can get costly. With us you are booking directly with the owners, eliminating the middle man or 3rd party booking fees."

The company states that all customers work directly through them and that all of their bonfire packages are listed on their website for those who would like to learn more. Vickers says that their packages range from the basic, which includes Smores supplies and firepit setup and take down to their more comprehensive package, which includes four hours of firewood, firepit setup and clean up, legal county permit, Smores, roasting sticks, face and hand wipes, table with linens, Nautica chairs and a small cooler with ice and water bottles.

Bonfires on the Beach services all of the beaches along 30A including Miramar Beach and Destin, as well as Santa Rosa Beach, Crystal Beach, Rosemary Beach, Panama City Beach, Seagrove and many others.
