Nice is the seventh most populous urban area in France. Located in the French Riviera on the south east coast of France at the base of the Alps, Nice sees a large number of tourists every year. The area is home to many famous beach resorts, such as Cannes and Saint-Tropez, along with the independent microstate of Monaco. The French Riviera, or Cote d?Azur, was once used as a health retreat during the 18th century, and the 1960s saw several aristocrats, artists, and other wealthy or fashionable people visit the area. To this day, the French Riviera is a very popular destination.

Located in the heart of Europe, between the Mediterranean Sea and the Southern Alps, the French Riviera gives tourists the opportunity to visit a number of places, including the pebble beach resorts of Mandelieu-la-Napoule in Menton, or go on a sea tour of the Lerins Islands. The Cote d?Azur is home to a number of national parks such as the Mercantour National Park, where tourists can go horseback riding, hiking, canyoning, mountain biking, caving, and climbing. The region boasts 15 ski resorts with a combined total of over 700 km of slopes.

The French Riviera offers food enthusiasts the full range of flavours available in Provencal cuisine. From Michelin starred venues to more common locations, tourists have a large number of options to choose from.

The area also boasts a number of famous landmarks, including the Cimiez Arenas, the Greek Villa of Kerylos, the Tropaeum Alpium, the Chapelle Notre-Dame des Fontaines, Villa Ephrussi Rothschild, the Notre-Dame Sanctuary, the new Jean Cocteau Museum in Menton, the Russian Church, and the Chagall Museum in Nice which may be of interest to history lovers.

A beautiful holiday destination, golf lovers will not find themselves bereft of activities to pursue. The area between the Cote d?Azur and Provence is home to many golf courses, including the Terre Blanche Hotel Spa Golf Resort, Domaines de Saint-Endreol, Dolce Fregate Provence, Barbaroux Hotel Golf and Spa, Royal Mougins Golf Resort Hotel, and Golf de Roquebrune Resort. These resorts, in addition to golf, offer spa treatments and access to the beaches along the shores of the Mediterranean.

Other places of note to visit in the French Riviera include the La Colline du Chateau in Nice, the Old Town in Nice, the medieval village of Eze, the medieval village of Grasse, Monaco, and the town of Menton. The Cote d?Azur hosts a number of festivities that may be of interest to tourists, such as the Lemon Festival in Menton, the Mimosa Festival and the Nice Carnival. There is also the well-known Cannes International Film Festival, the Nice Jazz Festival, and Jazz in Juan.
