July 14, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Colorado based brand Celltronix, recently introduced their latest multi-USB port charger to the market which will make life easier for mobile users. The wall charger offers a way for mobile users to charge more than one device from home, work, the airport, and various other locations with one convenient tool. Currently, the product is available through the company's online sales channel for $19.99, and provides free shipping.

The Multiple USB port wall charger comes with a limited lifetime warranty, and is marketed toward families and households where more than one person or device needs use of a charger at a single time. The company has said that this tool will help reduce arguments over who gets to charge their mobile phone first by providing 4 available USB ports. Along with the reduction of chaos surrounding powering up, the charger is also designed to minimize clutter in purses and travel bags, as well as outlets around the house. Celltronix says, "With the Quad USB Wall Charger by Celltronix, you won't have to have a power strip just to charge all of your mobile devices. No more running out of the room to plug your devices in, you can now replace up to four single-port chargers with this one wall adapter."

Using the 4 port USB charger guarantees a quick charge with 4.0 Amp output for even the most powerful gadget. Celltronix has said that the charger works with iPhone 6 Plus, 5S, 5C, 4S, Samsung models, Nexus, Motorola, LG, and a variety of tablets. The company explains, "4 USB ports and a 4.0A total output, so no more waiting turns to charge your device! Ideal for Smartphones, Cell Phones MP3 Players, Tablets, Digital Cameras and Portable Gaming devices. Perhaps our attention to detail is what separates us from the rest! Others won't work with your Apple devices or even truly charge your device 100%."

Currently the USB charger holds a 5 star rating through the company's online sales portal from customers who have tried it. Interested individuals can view these reviews, photos of the device, and other available information on the charger through the sales site. Celltronix encourages all new users to provide feedback after purchase so that they can continue creating high quality products for their customers to enjoy.
