March 25, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

American Quality Management, a consulting firm based in Montebello, California, has announced that they are celebrating their 14th anniversary of providing certification services for quality standards like ISO 9001. The company is an ISO 9001, AS 9100, and ISO 14001 consulting and auditing firm that focuses on helping companies of all sizes develop world class quality management systems while also being totally compliant with any and all international quality standards.

Connie Smith, a spokesperson for American Quality Management, says, "It gives us great pride to have completed 14 years of offering our services as a consulting firm for quality management systems. We expect to continue in our mission of continuously improving our customer's ability to efficiently manage their business, continually improving the effectiveness of the Quality Management System, including any applicable statutory and regulatory requirements. If you are an organization searching for a stronger return on investment, then an ISO 9001 quality management system is without any doubt an investment worth considering."

The company's ISO 9001 certification services are for those who don't have the internal staff to oversee the ISO certification process. Connie Smith explains that it is essential to find the best consultant if they are looking for the most cost-effective way to achieve ISO 9001 certification. She adds that this can spell the difference between simply having a quality management system that is put in place just to satisfy the requirements or a quality system that is able to add significant value to the company.

There are many benefits that a company can enjoy as a result of an ISO 9001 implementation. These include: better efficiency in their daily operations; better customer satisfaction through higher quality of products and services; development of a reputation that stands for quality, thus providing an increase in competitive edge; continual increase in productivity; decrease in costs related to returns due to defective products; expansion of market share and brand equity; optimization of internal communication and processes; reduction of the need for time-consuming customer audits; boost in customer trust; and higher standards of accountability for all levels of management.

The quality management standard known as ISO 9001:2015 is world renowned and has been implemented in more than 200 countries. As such, it has become a common set of rules for applying and managing quality in various cultures, people, and languages. ISO 9001 has become the most proven quality management standard because a successful implementation means increases in quality, personnel efficiency, and a significant decrease in costly wastes. This is particularly helpful in industries where profit margins are very small.

American Quality Management is ready to apply its ISO 9001 expertise to help companies, whether they are looking to develop an ISO 9001 system for the first time or they are simply looking to improve on their present quality management system. They have extensive experience in implementing lean six sigma quality systems and they are certified in ISO 9001:2008 themselves so they have first-hand knowledge and experience of what it means and what it takes to be ISO 9001 certified. Furthermore, because each business is unique, they ensure that the quality system that is established is 100 percent tailor-fitted to their unique requirements. Thus, companies can be sure that the quality system is designed to address their specific objectives and customized for their own unique corporate environment.

The team at American Quality Management is ready to help any organization in establishing a system that complies with various standards, such as AS 9120, AS9100, AS9110, ISO 14001, ISO 9001, ISO 13485, NADCAP, and R2. At the start, the team will conduct a gap analysis review in order to create a project timeline and then start working with the client's team.

Meanwhile, in a previous press release, American Quality Management had related how they were able to provide aerospace consulting to small and medium enterprises in California. Those who require more information about the various consulting services offered can visit their website, call them on the phone, or contact them by email.
