Gordon Law, P.C. ? Queens Immigration Attorneys Offer Comprehensive Immigration and Naturalization Services to Queens Immigrants Impacted By Change In USCIS Policy

March 28, 2019

March 28, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Queens, NY - Recently, the USCIS stated that any individual who is not yet a U.S. Citizen or legal permanent resident and who applies for a certain benefits and submits an application for an extension or change of status, a green card, or citizenship, will be face deportation if that benefit is not approved.

Prior to the recent shift in policy, it was necessary to have been convicted of a crime in order to be fast-tracked for deportation but, this in no longer the case. Under the newly adopted policy, an individual can face deportation if they lose their petition for a visa extension, if the person has been charged with a crime, or if the person has performed act that may be considered criminal by the Department of Homeland Security (even if the person was never arrested or charged).

Gordon Law, P.C. - Queens Immigration Attorney division has experienced and knowledgeable lawyers that focus their practice on immigration laws, their benefits and consequences and provide personalized services
