July 15, 2015 -
Energio, a distributor of gadgets and accessories, has recently announced its new Youtube channel to the public. Energio creates and offers its tech products on Amazon.com; its signature product, the Energio SLIM, is a pocket charger for phones.

Energio's founder, Patrick Loh reveals Energio's plans of expanding its business by launching more tech products for gadget owners. "The launch of our latest Youtube channel marks our plans of releasing new products in the future," he says. The YouTube channel will also be used to showcase the product review videos from existing customers. Currently, Energio's pocket charger has received mostly positive reviews on Amazon. There are 203 product reviews on Amazon about the Energio SLIM and 88% of them are either 4 stars or 5 stars reviews.

Energio's products are built for the tech-savvy consumer. The new YouTube channel currently features its debut product, the Energio SLIM, a portable battery charger for cellphones. Through the new channel, the company expects to widen their social media reach and to spread information on its current roster of products and upcoming products to be released to the public.

Android users will be delighted to explore the Energio SLIM as it is perfect as a portable Android charger with its built-in micro-USB cable. The pocket charger also comes with a complimentary lightning adapter that can charge iphones 5 and 6 for those who are Apple users. Made from sleek and sturdy lightweight aluminum, the pocket charger is built for durability. It is small and compact, and smaller than most cell phones. The pocket charger's high grade lithum polymer battery life is expected to reach 500 charging cycles for phones and tablets.

Energio's Youtube channel will be updated regularly, and is expected to see further developments in the future. The company wants to extend its reach on social media, and the recent release of the YouTube channel is a big step towards getting Energio's brand out there. "We at Energio are excited about people visiting our YouTube channel," continued Patrick. "It's a work in progress, so do keep an eye on it. More exciting products are about to come your way," he stated.

With the company's release of its YouTube channel. Energio is determined to deliver with useful, effective, and sturdy products as the demand for more innovative gadgets and gadget accessories continues to rise.
